TRADING ALLIANCE WITH RUSSIA UNDER FIRE FROM SOLONS

Western Senators Demand Higher Manganese Rate

WASHINGTON, Nov. 7.—The trade alliance of America's great steel companies with Soviet Russia was under fire in the senate today in the fight of spokesmen for domestic manganese producers to boost the tariff on that necessary ingredient of steel.

The demand for a tariff increase was voiced chiefly by representatives of western mining states where much manganese is produced. The senate finance committee, however, transferred the article to the tariff list on petition of steel companies.

With the Bethlehem Steel Corporation reported to have extensive manganese interests in Russia, fuel was added to the battle by the recent announcement the United States Steel Corporation had negotiated a five-year contract for a huge supply of manganese from the same country. Steel companies say they have been forced to buy outside the United States.

The situation not only furnished an opening for critics of the Hawley-Smoot bill to attack steel companies for opposing a tariff asked by manganese producers when all steel products are heavily protected, but gave advocates of recognition of Soviet Russia an opportunity to point out that "big business" is dealing with the Communist government.

Sen. Odell (R) of Nevada proposed a sliding scale of rates. They ranged from a half cent a pound on ore containing less than ten per cent of metallic manganese to 1 1/2 cents if the ore contained more than 25 per cent. The present law is one cent a pound if the ore contains more than 30 per cent.

Odell declared the Bethlehem company had not only been enriching its own manganese from Russian production but which W. A. Harriman and Co., the Bethlehem company or their officials are interested but had sold to other American companies. The U. S. Steel has been getting some manganese from its own Brazilian mines, he said.

AMERICAN HEROES' BODIES RETURNED

HAVRE, France, Nov. 7.—The bodies of eighty-six American heroes of the "Polar Bear" division who fell while fighting in the Archangel region in 1918 today reposed in a temporary vault here awaiting shipment to New York aboard an American ship.

They were part of the 33rd Infantry of Michigan, known as "Detroit's Own." The last of American fighting men to be exhumed abroad for burial in the United States, the bodies arrived here yesterday aboard a Soviet freighter after a two-weeks' trip from Leningrad.

American and French flags have been at half-mast since their arrival and a French guard of honor is in constant attendance at the vault.

SHELVE ATTACK ON MANAGER HOPKINS

CLEVELAND, Nov. 7.—A resolution charging non-feasance and neglect of duty and demanding the resignation of City Manager William R. Hopkins today was virtually shelved by Cleveland's city council.

The resolution, introduced by Councilman Alexander De Maloribus, was referred to the judiciary committee without debate, where it is expected to remain until this month is supplanted by the new council which takes office in January.

FEDERAL OFFICERS PROBE CANTON, OHIO RACE SWINDLE CASE

Detective Chief Is Suspended; Report $90,000 Lost

CANTON, O., Nov. 7.—Federal authorities today started an intensive investigation into an alleged $90,000 racing swindle which has already resulted in the suspension of Captain Ed Swope, chief of Canton detectives for nineteen years, on charges of non-feasance.

Police Chief Earl Hexamer, who suspended Swope had a "tip" on a $90,000 racing swindle but took no action in the matter.

NEGOTIATIONS ON DEBT ARE STARTED

BERLIN, Nov. 7.—Actual negotiations looking toward a separate agreement between Germany and the United States on debts and reparations were begun here today.

Edwin Wilson, secretary of the American Embassy in Paris, who has come to Berlin for the purpose, is conducting the negotiations on behalf of the United States.

The agreement is designed to prove a means for Germany to pay to the United States the costs of the American army of occupation and other debts resulting from the war, without recourse to the Young plan or the international bank for reparations settlement.

Preliminary negotiations for the agreement were put into motion two weeks ago by United States Ambassador Jacob Gould Schurman, who represented to the German foreign office a number of proposals originating in Washington designed to cover Germany's obligations to America.

BLEACHER CRASH BASIS FOR DAMAGES

NEW YORK, Nov. 7.—The New York Yankees baseball club today was faced by a $500,000 damage suit, which was filed yesterday in supreme court by eighteen persons who were injured in the bleacher crash at the stadium on May 19.

Negligence on the part of stadium officials in not having the gates unlocked when rain threatened is the principle point stressed by the plaintiffs.

Search For Cabaret Entertainer Is Extended West

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 7.—The spotlight shifted to Philadelphia today in the search for the slayer of 4-year-old Dorothy Rogers as police sought a wealthy male friend of Gladys Parkes Baker, erstwhile cabaret entertainer and Philadelphia model, for whom a warrant has been sworn out charging her with suspicion of murder in the child's death.

Arrest of the male friend, who posed as the woman's husband when she secured possession of the little girl and her brother, Timothy, 2, police are confident, will throw much light on the circumstances surrounding the child's death. The 4-year-old ward was slain and her body was dissected and immersed in quicklime to hasten its decomposition, police charge. Then the attractive show girl packed the body into a suitcase and deposited the skeleton under a clump of bushes near National Park, N. J., Camden County detectives charge.

The tragedy and the tears of the child's fear-crazed father, Alan Rogers, Woodbury insurance agent, that his baby son also has met the same fate as Dorothy and state police of two states have joined in the search for the red-haired missing beauty. The search will be greatly expedited, authorities say, with the arrest of the man, who now is believed to have supplied her with large sums of money during the early days of her residence in Camden.

St. Louis police have been asked to join in the search for the Baker woman following a report that she had moved to the middle Western city several weeks ago.

Heretofore unrevealed details may be the basis of the present probe of the tragedy the bereaved father intimated today as he told of employing a private detective in the search for his children.

"I think I know why she killed them," he said, "but I cannot reveal that reason now."

Police have learned that the missing chorus girl was a first cousin of Rogers' wife who died about a year ago leaving him with six motherless children. She was permitted custody of the two Roger children because of the father's belief of her love of children and upon the pleadings of her male friend.

COOPER TO APPOINT OHIO COMMITTEE TO PROBE TAX STATUTES

Non-Partisan Group To Include Donahey Is Report

COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 7.—A non-partisan committee to study the tax legislation in Ohio will be appointed by Governor Myers Y. Cooper sometime before the first of the year, it was announced at the chief executive's office today.

Anticipating adoption of the tax amendment at the election Tuesday, an official speaker for the governor declared, the head of the state knows already how he is going to proceed.

The tax amendment was adopted by a majority of 196,114, according to complete official returns. It allows the state legislature to classify the different properties of the state for taxation.

Mentioned as probable members of the governor's committee are: former Governor Vic Donahey; Senator Allan Aigler, Bellevue, president pro tem of the senate; Robert P. Taft, Cincinnati attorney, and one of Ohio's leading tax experts; Henry F. Wallcut, professor of economics at Ohio State University; Representative John Hadden, Cleveland, chairman of the house taxation committee; Senator Paul Herbert, Columbus, chairman of the senate taxation committee; Senator G. M. Kuntler, Lewisburg, and Representative William C. Wendt.

LONDON, Nov. 7.—An impressive series of receptions awaits United States Ambassador Charles G. Dawes on his return here from America. CUPID IGNORES RULES

Young West Pointer Defies Regulations To Take Bride; Looking For Job Now

WEST NEWBURY, Mass., Nov. 7.—"No cadet shall have a horse, dog, wife or moustache."

And if any cadet shall be married before graduation, such marriage shall be considered as equivalent to a resignation and he shall be required to leave the institution.

These portions of the rules and regulations governing a young man while at the United States Military Academy explain why Paul Caprone, 21, whose father is a professor of mathematics at the naval academy, today was spending a belated honeymoon here, and preparing to march on Boston and New York in search of a job.

Paul Caprone, Jr., 20, fell in love with the former Miss Margaret Gillespie, daughter of Col. Alexander Gillespie, instructor of gunnery and ordnance at West Point, Caprone, a son of instructor and Mrs. Caprone, was only a plebe when he first met the girl.

But not until the cadets left for New Haven, Conn., to attend the Army-Yale game did the young couple find an opportunity to be married.

Efforts to have the knot tied in New Haven, Conn., failed, but undaunted, Caprone and his sweetheart went to Brewster, N. Y., where a justice of the peace performed the ceremony. It was all done so quickly that Caprone had sufficient time to return to New Haven, and make the return journey to West Point with the cadet corps. Later Caprone tendered his resignation.

He and his bride then came on here to the summer home of his parents. The ex-cadet indicated his desire of finding a newspaper job. He attended Harvard for two years. The bride was formerly a resident of Chicago.

COSTLY LUXURY

CINCINNATI, O., Nov. 7.—The seventeen-month marital adventure of Mrs. Pearl F. Jordan proved very costly to her, according to her divorce suit which is on file here today. She charged her husband, George, "squandered" $40,000 of her funds since they were married June 5, last year.

She charged that her husband told her he was a contractor and that she agreed to invest in two houses he was to build. In the first instance, the house was built ten feet closer to the sidewalk than is allowed by the zoning ordinances, and it had to be torn down. The second house, for which a customer had already been found, was built ten feet too high and the prospective buyer refused to buy it, she alleged.

POLICE SEEK THREE WHO ESCAPED AFTER SHOOTING OF FIVE

"Masher" Uses Gun As Husband Resents Remarks

CINCINNATI, O., Nov. 7.—Police here today are seeking three men who escaped yesterday, following the shooting and wounding of five persons, two of them women.

The three men, who were seated in an automobile in front of the Crosley radio plant, are alleged to have passed remarks to women employees leaving the building.

Claude Hughes protested when the trio directed several remarks at his wife, Mrs. Mattie Hughes. An argument ensued. Hughes picked up a brick, but was prevailed upon by James Crowe, who was also waiting for his wife, to put it down. Before this could be done, according to Hughes, one of the trio whipped out a gun and started to shoot.

The victims of the shooting are: Claude Hughes, 35, wounded in the neck, said to be in a critical condition.

James Crowe, 24, flesh wound in the back.

Edward Mappes, 18, shot in right hip.

Miss Lorraine Wagner, 19, shot in left leg.

Flora Gory, 49, shot in right hip.

GUARD SLEEPS AND PRISONERS RUN

HARRISBURG, Nov. 7.—Nida Ragland, alias William Thornton, 23-year-old Georgia negro, who escaped from a road gang of the Georgia State Penitentiary at Buena Vista, Ga., recently, was captured here during the night and was lodged in the county jail today awaiting instructions from the Georgia penitentiary.

Grimy, emaciated and wearing tattered clothes, Ragland was discovered sleeping in the cellar of a home at Steelton, Harrisburg suburb, last night. He told detectives that he was serving a sentence of from ten to twenty years in Georgia for the attempted murder of his wife when he fled from the road gang.

How did he escape? "Boss, when that road gang guard fell asleep, I just galloped away from there."

ARREST COMMUNISTS
LONDON, Nov. 7.—Extensive Communist activity in Japan has been revealed for the first time today with the arrest of 825 agitators on charges of disseminating Communist propaganda, according to a London Times dispatch from Tokyo.

DIPLOMATIC BOOZE SUPPLY UNDER FIRE IN CAPITAL FURORE

Wall Street Liquor Party Attracts Attention Also

WASHINGTON, Nov. 7.—The choice liquor supplies of the diplomatic corps and a "Wall Street booze party," which was given here three years ago, were "under fire" today on these fronts in the capital's latest uproar over prohibition enforcement.

The diplomatic liquor situation was being investigated by Senator Howell (R) of Nebraska, who would not discuss the extent of his inquiry. Howell however, was understood to be "checking" on the amount of liquor brought into this country by diplomats under their official immunity to American laws.

There have been rumors current here for years that some of the diplomatic liquor consignments have gone astray only to appear later on the dinner tables of the capital's socially elite.

The "Wall Street booze party," which Walter J. Fahy, a New York broker, tendered in 1926 for "new senators" and his New York friends was being probed by a federal grand jury to determine whether criminal prosecutions can be instituted. The jury was to decide first whether additional witnesses should be summoned from the guest list, which Senator Smith W. Brookhart (R) of Iowa, presented while testifying yesterday.

HOME OUT-LURES HOLLYWOOD

DAYTON, O., Nov. 7.—A 13-year-old Philadelphia boy, who allegedly ran away from his home the day being held by juvenile authorities here to deny pending word from the lad's parents.

The youth is weary and ready to go home.

The boy, Charles Whitkas, said he was going to Hollywood where he would "take the place of Tom Mix in the movies."

Whitkas said he could ride a horse better than anyone in his neighborhood at home, and felt that he could emulate the famous Mix.

But, the young "hitch-hiker" found the going tough and he said he was ready to go home.

PILSUDSKI ACCUSED

WARSAW, Nov. 7.—The opposition press today seized upon the suspension of the Polish parliament as grounds for charges that Marshal Pilsudski, one-time dictator of Poland, fears to meet his parliamentary opponents.

KISSING HERE TO STAY

So Says Elinor Glyn, Who Ought To Know; She Scorns Warning About Germs

LONDON, Nov. 7.—"Kissing is a natural habit that cannot be abolished and all the legislation in the world won't prevent it."

This was the answer given today by Elinor Glyn, famous writer, when interviewed on the suggestion that osculation should be discouraged on the grounds it spreads colds, influenza and germs of various diseases.

"Any man who hesitates to kiss his wife in order to debate the effect of the kiss on his throat deserves to be divorced," she said. "And in America he probably would be."

"Can you imagine the sweet young thing, who has just accepted with enthusiasm an impassioned proposal of marriage saying: 'Yes, George, I will marry you—but no, you must not kiss me. It is detrimental to the health.'"

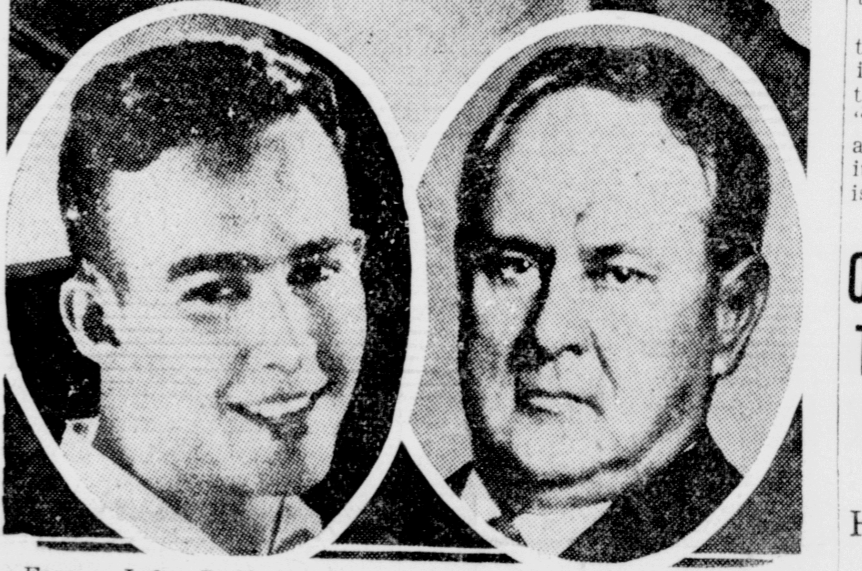

"Some time ago an ingeniously-minded medical man in America suggested that the passage of germs from mouth to mouth during a kiss could be arrested if an antiseptic gauze were placed between the lips of the kissers."

"Now I ask you—can you imagine kissing a person through an antiseptic gauze?"

"No! You can drill it into the minds of the people that germ distribution is included in a kiss, but you will never cure them."

SOVIETS OBSERVE TWELFTH ANNIVERSARY OF REVOLUTION

MOSCOW, Nov. 7.—Hundreds of thousands paraded in Red Square today in a stupendous celebration marking the twelfth anniversary of the revolution of 1917.

Spashes of red blazoned everywhere. Thousands upon thousands of revolutionary placards passed in an endless stream through the streets.

It was the usual colorful orgy of enthusiasm in which the citizens of Moscow have indulged annually since the revolution.

But in one respect, it differed from all former celebrations since the death of that great Soviet leader, Nicholas Lenin.

No direct tribute was paid him by his ardent worshippers for the first time since he died because his body lay hidden in the Kremlin pending its removal to a new tomb now under construction.

The new Lenin Mausoleum occupies half of Moscow's famous Red Square. A high wooden fence which obscured it from public gaze was covered with graphic designs showing the progress of the Soviet's five year industrial plan.

Stands built all around the square gave it the aspect of a huge amphitheater. Red emblems decorated by spectators and officials waving the various parades and every Soviet citizen displayed red somewhere on his person.

There were both military and civil parades. All branches of the army were represented in dress array. Auxiliary units of women and youths also marched. Last, came the great army of marching workers.

Allegorical floats and huge decorations not only here, but throughout the Soviet, reminded Russia's millions of the twelfth anniversary of the Communist regime.

Speakers harangued the proletariat from hastily-constructed platforms.

The 150,000 troops holding the Manchurian frontier were honored as heroes in song as well as in speeches.

Josef Stalin, leader of the Communist party, who recently returned to Moscow after several weeks in a sanatorium due to a nervous breakdown, participated in the ceremonies, inaugurating the anniversary celebrations at the Moscow Opera House last night. Stalin appeared thinner but apparently in vigorous health again. He was accorded a tremendous ovation.

LONDON, Nov. 7.—Fearing outbreaks today because of high national feeling growing out of Russian celebrations of the twelfth anniversary of the Soviet Republic, Chinese officials at Harbin have arrested a large number of Russians, dispatches from the far-east which were received here stated.

The Chinese also fear a general Russian attack on the Siberia-Manchurian frontier, the dispatches added, and have rushed strong reinforcements to Pogradichnaya.

LETTERS found in the apartment indicated she had been worried by financial matters. Her mother resides in Elmira, N. Y.

The body was found on the floor of the apartment after other tenants had been puzzled all day by the odor of escaping gas. It was clad in red silk pajamas. Gas jets in the kitchen stove were open and near the body lay a towel which had been soaked in chloroform.

NEW PHILADELPHIA, O., Nov. 7.—Miss Elizabeth McCullough, 51-year-old spinster, is dead here today, having committed suicide late yesterday afternoon by drinking carbolic acid. The tragedy took place at the home of her brother, William H. McCullough, here.

The container of the poison could not be found. Miss McCullough, a former resident of Cincinnati, was an aunt of County Surveyor Ray McCullough.

DEFENSE SEEKS NEW TRIAL; JURORS SAY MINDS INFLUENCED

One Admits Threats; Wrongly Informed Say Women

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 7.—The Alexander Pantages attack case took on a new complexion today after three affidavits from jurors, who voted to convict the multi-millionaire snowman, charged their decision was influenced by coercion.

Seven affidavits in all were filed by Pantages' attorneys and upon the text of these, the defense lawyers will seek a new trial for their client when he appears in court Saturday for sentencing. The affidavits were presented to District Attorney Burton Pitts in accordance with court instructions.

Threats if what the Rev. Robert Shuler would say about them should they acquit Pantages on an asserted attack on Eunice Pringle, 17-year old dancer, were used by one of the men jurors, according to one of the affidavits.

The three women also swore that they had been led by the fact that they were told the words "with clemency" or "with leniency" added to their verdict would make it mandatory that Pantages' punishment be reduced.

CHANGES IN INCOME TAX LAWS ARE BEING URGED ON TREASURY

Higher Allowance For Dependents Being Sought

WASHINGTON, Nov. 7.—With the treasury fretting over sums that run into the billions seeking a way to tax reduction, agitation was arising today from many quarters for various revenue law changes to lighten the burden of assessment the government puts on the country every year.

Among the latest demands was for a boost in the allowance for dependents, and an increase in the age within which children may be classed as dependent.

Under the present law a deduction of $400 may be made for dependents, including children up to the age of eighteen years. In certain congressional circles it was declared that with advancing cost of living, especially of education, the deduction should be materially higher. Also the point was made that with many young people in college after the age of eighteen, when their upkeep is unusually high, an increase should be made to twenty-one years. Increase in the exemption for married persons to $1,000 or $5,000 has been advocated.

Officials did not think these changes in the law would reduce the government's income to a great extent. On the other hand it might be a form of tax relief that would reduce the financial burden of education in a considerable degree.

FORMER SECRETARY COMMITTS SUICIDE

WASHINGTON, Nov. 7.—A verdict of suicide was returned today by the coroner in the case of Miss Mabel Walker, pretty 30-year-old brunette, who was found dead in her apartment here of chloroform and gas poisoning.

She was formerly one of the secretaries in the office of Senator Edward I. Edwards (D) of New Jersey, but had not been employed regularly since his retirement from congress.

Letters found in the apartment indicated she had been worried by financial matters. Her mother resides in Elmira, N. Y.

The body was found on the floor of the apartment after other tenants had been puzzled all day by the odor of escaping gas. It was clad in red silk pajamas. Gas jets in the kitchen stove were open and near the body lay a towel which had been soaked in chloroform.

SPINSTER DRINKS ACID TO END LIFE

NEW PHILADELPHIA, O., Nov. 7.—Miss Elizabeth McCullough, 51-year-old spinster, is dead here today, having committed suicide late yesterday afternoon by drinking carbolic acid. The tragedy took place at the home of her brother, William H. McCullough, here.

A family doctor's laxative is the sensible choice!

YOUR health is too important!

You can't afford experiments with your delicate bowels when a coated tongue, bad breath, gas, headaches, nausea, feverishness, biliousness, lack of appetite, and no energy, warn of constipation. This applies not only to grown people; it is particularly the case where young children are concerned.

That's why a family doctor's laxative is always the safe choice! Only a doctor knows just what will cleanse the system of men, women or children without harm.

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is prepared today under strict supervision from freshest herbs and other pure ingredients, and exactly according to Dr. Caldwell's original prescription.

He was a family doctor for more than forty-seven years. He specialized in the disorders of the digestive tract. He tested this prescription in thousands of cases. Men liked its quick and thorough action; the children liked its pleasant taste; old people praised it because it never gripes.

Today, millions of families rely on Dr. Caldwell's judgment in the selection of their laxative. Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is now sold in all drug stores. It is the world's largest selling laxative.

TAX MEASURE LOST BY 1,100 IN 1925

Whereas at the 1925 election Greene County voters disapproved of the proposed tax classification amendment to the state constitution by a margin of 1,100 votes, the amendment up for consideration again at Tuesday's election, was approved in Greene County by an official majority of 503 votes, comparative figures disclose.

According to official figures announced Thursday by the board of elections, 3,402 votes were cast in favor of the amendment and 2,899 against it. In 1925 the vote was 2,143 in favor of the proposal and 3,260 against it.

State P-T. A. President Speaks In Xenia

MRS. Minnie Hamilton Schaffer, Dayton, president of the state P-T. A. Council, and a member of the Dayton Board of Education, was the guest speaker at the Xenia P-T. A. dinner at Central High School cafeteria, Wednesday evening.

Mrs. Schaffer said, "I am greatly indebted to you for this opportunity of meeting and knowing you. It is a great pleasure and privilege to be your leader and I am proud to represent the greatest organization in the world, an organization that is advancing, greater than any other organization in America."

"In Ohio, we have 90,000 members and 1003 associations. Ohio is third in membership in the United States."

She told of the three objectives of the state P-T. A. for the coming year, which are: summer roundup, rural life, and parental education.

She stressed parental education by saying, "Every child is potentially a good adult. Most undesirable adults are made, not born, made by unintelligent treatment in youth by adults. The social sins of youth are not hereditary; they are as a rule acquired through mis-education at the hands of adults, in the home, the street, the school, vicious movies and wrong books. Parental ignorance is responsible for the endless stream of childhood's sorrow, in as well as out of the courts. There is no cure except in parental understanding of the nature, needs, and necessities of youth and their guidance in the light of this understanding. The state department of education is co-operating with the state officials of the P-T. A. to make the parents in the state of Ohio, interested in parental education. Therefore the one important project of the P-T. A. this year is parental education."

REPORTS GIVEN AT MISSIONARY MEET

Interesting reports by several members featured the meeting of the Women's Missionary Society of the Second United Presbyterian Church, at the church Wednesday afternoon. Forty members attended the meeting.

The meeting was opened with devotions, led by Miss Jeanette Morrow. Mrs. J. Weir Cooper gave some very interesting facts on the temperance work of today. The subject for study for the afternoon was "Ancient and Modern Egypt." Mrs. J. Harry Nagley reading an interesting paper on "The Glory of Ancient Egypt," while the subject of Mrs. Raymond Hopping's paper was "Modern Egypt."

The report of the treasurer was given and showed an increase. A letter of thanks for the box of fruit sent to the Old Folks Home at Pittsburgh was read by the association secretary. All invitation from the Missionary Society of the First U. P. Church was read, inviting the Second U. P. members to attend a meeting Tuesday, November 12. A report of the meeting of the Presbyterial at the Second U. P. Church, October 17, given by Mrs. Jennie Comin, closed the program for the afternoon.

MRS. KEITER ENTERTAINS MISSIONARY SOCIETY.

The Missionary Society of the United Brethren Church, held its regular monthly meeting at the home of Mrs. John Keiter, 537 W. Second St., Wednesday afternoon.

Mrs. C. E. Trubee president of the organization, read the devotion. A program of readings and talks was given from the study book "Jerusalem to Jerusalem."

There were twelve members present and a social hour followed the meeting. The hostess was assisted by Mrs. Burgess Crumline and Mr. Martin Newcomer, in serving a light refreshment course.

MISS ELEANOR McDONNELL ENTERTAINED WEDNESDAY.

Honoring Miss Eleanor McDonnell, winner of the southern Ohio division of the Atwater Kent Radio Audition, recently held at Columbus, Mrs. A. G. Warren, delightfully entertained at her home on Center St., Wednesday evening with a chicken dinner.

Following the dinner games of five hundred were in play. The house was beautifully decorated with fall flowers for the occasion.

Members of Miss McDonnell's family and the hostess' family were present.

EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE ENTERTAINED WEDNESDAY

Members of the new executive committee of the Business and Professional Woman's Club entertained members of last year's executive committee at the home of Mrs. Henrietta Logan Schultz, E. Second St., with a cafeteria supper, Wednesday evening.

Games and contests were in play throughout the evening and contest prize was awarded Miss Nelle McKay.

Miss McKay entertained following the contests by reading palms.

Mrs. J. M. Johnston, Ironton, is spending this week here as the guest of her sister, Mrs. J. C. Dodds, Hill St.

Mrs. William Golden, Dayton, former Xenian, will entertain four tables of Xenia women at a card party at Rike's, Dayton, Friday afternoon.

WEATHERFORD, Tex., Nov. 7.—Judge R. H. Hamilton, on trial here for murder in connection with the slaying of his 21-year-old son-in-law, Tom Walton, was a free man today, after being acquitted by a jury which deliberated only one hour and forty-five minutes.

Three ballots were taken in the jury deliberations. The first was eight to four for acquittal; the second eleven to one; and the third stood for acquittal. The jury returned its verdict so quickly that Judge Hamilton was not even in the courtroom. He had retired to his hotel room for sleep. It was several minutes before news of his acquittal reached him.

Tom Walton, who was secretly married to Theresa Hamilton, 17-year-old daughter of the accused judge, was slain in the law offices of the Amarillo jurist last May 4, after the two men had struggled for a pistol in possession of the accused, it was brought out in evidence at the trial.

Hamilton pleaded self-defense and with an army of twelve lawyers built up a defense wall that could not be torn down. Evidence was repeatedly recited by defense witnesses purporting to show that Walton had threatened the life of the former assistant state attorney general and member of the state appeals commission.

They were agreed, however, on the intrinsic merit of the common law, which consists of J. P. Morgan and Company, First National Bank, National City Bank, Bankers Trust Company, Guaranty Trust Company and Chase National Bank did not convene yesterday. They were watching the situation closely Tommy Armour, Jr., seven-year-old son of the nationally known golf star, who, Mrs. Armour charges, was abandoned with her.

MEDICAL SOCIETY MEETS THURSDAY

Miss Zoe McCaleb, Columbus, from the state department of health, was the guest speaker at the regular monthly meeting of the Greene County Medical Society in the assembly room of the Court House, Thursday morning. She talked on "Public Health Nursing."

Dr. Leslie Sontag, Antioch College physician, gave a short talk concerning the Fels Fund to the college.

"Prenatal Care" was the subject of Dr. R. R. McClellan's talk. The society passed a resolution asking city commission to pass a new ordinance on the pasteurization of milk.

Business of importance closed the meeting.

MARKET RALLIES AS SEQUEL TO OPENING DECLINE THURSDAY

NEW YORK, Nov. 7.—Stock prices rallied sharply today after slumping 5 to 12 points at the opening. In spectacular fashion, United States Steel, a pivotal issue, after opening 7 points lower at 162, came back 13 points to 175, and the general list became firmer.

Again this morning, trading was heavy, sales the first half hour aggregating 2,400,500 shares compared with 1,157,400 the corresponding period yesterday.

The reaction from the opening slump came at 11 o'clock. American Can which had declined 12 points to 103, reacted to 112. J. & J. Manville, which opened down 7 to 95, came back to 101. American and Foreign Power which opened at 54, off 6, sold up to 65. Radio, after opening at 31, down 1-2, moved up to 35 and Montgomery Ward, which lost 5 1-2 points to 52 at the opening, recovered to 55.

Wall Street observers were somewhat mystified at the opening "break," coming as it did on the heels of the declines of Wednesday. The consensus among the well-informed was that speculators everywhere—in the United States and abroad—were either being forced out or frightened out of the market as a result of the long slump, or both.

Thousands of speculators have been wiped out, having been unable to raise money to meet their margins. Then, too, there is a wariness on the part of countless other potential buyers of stocks from getting into the market because of the recent downward swing in prices.

Yet, with the return of security prices to the present low levels, many other investors combed the list carefully for stocks offering attractive yields and reasonable prospects of continued good earnings. There is a vast army of people with money eager to invest rather than to merely speculate on margins. But they are operating cautiously.

Brokers urged conservatism.

BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY

ASSURED SUCCESS — Whosoever heareth my sayings, and doeth them, is like a man which built a house, and digged deep, and laid a foundation on a rock; and when the flood arose, the stream beat vehemently upon that house, and could not shake it; for it was founded upon a rock.—Luke 6:47, 48.

ORCHID IS SYMBOL

Hundreds of Americans who have never seen an orchid, and hundreds of other citizens who have only seen one in a florist's window or in a public conservatory, may be surprised to hear that an orchid nursery started 22 years ago in the east was recently sold for $2,500,000. In this nursery the cultivation of orchids was a business. Some wealthy individuals in the United States collect orchids as a hobby, but the man who operated this nursery did so because he wanted to make money. The greenhouses contain 135,000 flowering specimens, including rare ones valued at several hundreds of dollars apiece.

Orchid culture began in England in 1820, but did not develop in the United States until after the Civil war. Growth and propagation of these delicate flowers require painstaking care, seven years being the time necessary to bring a flower to maturity. The flower is a parasite, a native of tropical countries.

To American imaginations the orchid has long symbolized great wealth and a life of leisure. The fact that commerce in orchids for one establishment alone can have a value of millions indicates that the United States is a land where luxuries are commonplace.

HEALTHFUL OUTCOME

The sentence of the court delivered in the Fall bribery case will be approved generally by the country; and the fact that there is to be a prolonged stay of execution because the ex-secretary is appealing to the supreme court does not diminish the generally healthful effect of the outcome of the trial. The jury found in accordance with the facts; the judge ordered a punishment which is appropriate without being excessive in the case of a physically broken man. The record is clear. People in high places of trust in this country cannot take to shady and dishonest courses and get away with it. They are subject to the laws and to penalties provided in the laws just as other people are. The whole outcome of the case is a vindication of justice, and is a warning to any who may need one.

The Soviet regime in Moscow has just shot another batch of 26 "enemies." Which perhaps only proves that some people do not recognize the millenium when it is introduced to them.

Most of the things we worry and fuss over today aren't of the least importance tomorrow, and none of them mean anything ten years hence.

Bo-Broadway

By JOSEPH VAN RAALTE

NEW YORK, Nov. 5.—Heard by two "hams" who haven't seen the inside of a dressing room since old Doc Demosthenes swallowed pebbles on the Greek beach:

"How old is your kid?"

"Four months old."

"What? Four months old and not working?"

PHILADELPHIA JACK'S BUSINESS

Philadelphia Jack O'Brien, erstwhile light heavyweight champ, has a Broadway gym where he beats the over-fed matrons and brokers of Park avenue back into Social Register shape. Jack is arranging another "Battle of the Century" when the old-timers, Jim Jeffries, Jim Flynn, Jack Monroe, Tommie Burns, Jess Willard, "Gentleman Jim" Corbett, Jack Sharkey and others will once more don their fighting togs for a final fling in the Squared Circle.

GEORGE AND SAM TOGETHER AGAIN

Way back in the dim and dusty past, when Equity first came into being, George Cohan and Sam Harris were partners. They split over Equity and for many a long day used opposite sides of the street. But times has taken the edge off the quarrel and next month they're going to re-unite, which is as it should be. They're rehearsing every night at the Friars' Club a surprise act which they are going to present at the Silver Jubilee of the organization, at the Majestic theater on Nov. 24. George wrote the act and Sam does the critiquing. During rehearsals praise agents and fanes are barred—which also is as it should be.

WHAT A BEAUTY!

Ed Pearson, formerly one of the librarians at the New York public library, has dredged from the archives an astonishing collection of literary monstrosities which he has put into a volume called "Queer Books" (Doubleday Doran).

A novelist's conception of female beauty in the early 90's is given in one of Pearson's quotations from "The Balsam Groves of the Grandfather Mountain," by Shepherd M. Dugger. Dugger thus describes Lidie Meeks, his heroine:

"Her mouth was set with pearls, adorned with elastic rubies and tuned with minstrel lays, while her nose gracefully concealed its umbrage, and her eyes imparted a radiant glow to the azure of the sky. Jewels of plain gold were about her eyes and her tapering, strawberry hands, and a golden chain, attached to a time-keeper of the same material, sparkled on the elegantly rounded bosom that was destined to be pushed forward by sighs, as the reader will in due time observe. Modest, benevolent and mild in manners, she was probably the fairest of North Carolina's daughters."

PULL THE CURTAIN:

Which recalls the lyric submitted by a youthful aspirant in a newspaper song contest, in the course of which he wrote:

"There are sky lights in your eyes."

BULLETIN

Al Smith, who, in his biography, "Up to Now," admits that 39 years ago he donned makeup and skipped behind the footlights, may decide to do a "Talkie" based on his many-sided career. Winnie Sheehan, "head man" for Fox, is to get a "yes" or "no" from Al in the near future.

SHE COULD AFFORD IT!

A New York chorine who has a couple of Sugar Pappas with self-starting bankrolls is pausing at a hostelry on the fringe of The Lane. The caravansarie has the reputation, among those who knew, of tossing together Manhattan cocktails like Father used to make. "Er Lydieship ordered a few cocktails sent to her suite the other day. Later she ordered more and subsequently more still. Finally the barkeep dispatched a bellhop aloft for some of the empty glasses so that other fanciers might be supplied. The boy found 35 cocktails clustered on a gold and oak table in the center of the living room. "Take 'em out," ordered the lady. "All I wanted was the cherries!"

Fabric and fur combinations in millinery are popular in Paris, and brims continue to be draped in a soft, flattering manner.

THE WAY of the WORLD

By GROVE PATTERSON

KEEPING UP AND AHEAD

A New York football coach—Chick Meehan—studies his plays and studies his men after each game by watching a picture news reel which unrolls all the happenings of the game before his watchful eyes. So many things, like radio, motion pictures, and even automobiles, start as novelties and matters of entertainment and grow quickly into the uses of business and education. One has to be rapidly adapted to keep up in this fast moving world.

LIGHT

A world without electric lights is almost unthinkable. Young folks of today have no remembrance of the candle, oil lamp, lantern days. Many have never seen a gas light, and yet we are celebrating now only the fiftieth anniversary of Edison's invention of the incandescent light. And what is a mere half century in the millions of years that have made up time and must continue to make up time?

OUTDOORS

Speaking of Edison, we should know that for 15 years Mrs. Edison has been a director of the Playground and Recreation Association of America. Mrs. Edison, in a message to the National Recreation Congress, tells folks that people who lack contact with outdoor life cannot be happy. And she properly reminds us that the best things in life—above all, the open spaces—are free.

AS TO PROHIBITION AGAIN

Prohibition continues to be the favorite topic where two or three are gathered together. Says Rt. Rev. Joseph Schrembs, Catholic bishop of Cleveland: "Saloons and drunkenness are intolerable, but prohibition is a mistake, and a sad one at that." The bishop says his church has "always recommended temperance and moderation in all aspects of life." He adds there is little hope of an immediate solution of the problem. He depends on the good sense of the people to do that in time.

PROBLEMS

As for prohibition, or any other national problem, we in the United States have a comparatively simple time of it compared to Europe, taken as a whole. We have about a hundred and a quarter million of people speaking one language. In Europe there are 461,000,000 speaking 121 languages.

ENFORCEMENT OF ANTI-TRUST LAWS PROMISED

By WILLIAM D. MITCHELL

United States Attorney General (William D. Mitchell) was born at Winona, Minn., Sept. 9, 1874. He attended Yale two years and is a graduate of the University of Minnesota. Admitted to the bar in 1896, he began his law practice at St. Paul. He was appointed solicitor general by President Coolidge in 1925, and last spring was named attorney general by President Hoover. During the World war he was at Camp Taylor, Ky. He is a Democrat.

Anti-trust laws of the United States will be enforced with vigor and determination.

In the first place let me say that the department's program of law enforcement does not make any exception of the anti-trust laws. I have read nothing of the president's inaugural address or in any other of his statements which makes any distinction in the matter of law enforcement between the anti-trust laws and any other acts of congress, and I have received no intimation from any source that the anti-trust laws were to be neglected or that violations of those laws were not to be prosecuted with vigor and determination. There have been many changes in economic conditions since these statutes were passed, and much discussion has arisen as to whether some modification of them is desired to meet modern business conditions.

The anti-trust laws are founded on the proposition that avenues of industrial opportunity must be kept open as far as possible to the initiative of the individual citizen. The alternative is bureaucratic regulation. That is not an attractive alternative. At any rate, until the political philosophy underlying the present anti-trust laws has been abandoned by congress it will be the duty of the attorney general to enforce these laws, and we shall undertake to do this without prejudice and with fairness, but with firmness.

The department of justice is not the place in which to amend the anti-trust laws or any other acts of congress. Changes in business conditions and methods of marketing, vertical trusts, chain stores, and other modern developments, have come thick and fast, and have been somewhat confusing to those dealing with the anti-trust laws. But I have no doubt that the principles contained in these statutes will be intelligently applied by the courts to the modern conditions.

Our material prosperity has been so overwhelming, our business institutions have been increasing in size and number with such leaps and bounds, that I fear there has been a disposition here and there to go too far and transgress the law. The machinery of some trade association seems to have been made use of for transactions

GREEDY LITTLE GOLDBLOCKS!

How To Achieve Beauty

By MME. HELENA RUBINSTEIN

Eyes really tell more about a person than any other feature of the face. If the eyes are soft and young no matter if the nose and mouth are irregular, the face is attractive and charming. But just as youth is best expressed in the eyes, so age, when it takes its toll, leaves its first marks there.

Massage around the area of the eyes, if done in time, will prevent lines and crowfeet from forming, and even if done afterward, will do much to obliterate these indicators of time.

The important thing to remember in eye massage is that the skin is most delicate. The greatest care must be exercised to prevent stretching, and only the gentlest patting form of massage can be used. In fact, so featherweight is its quality must this massage be, that it can hardly be called massage, and it should only be done with the fingertips.

First apply a good anti-wrinkle cream thinly over the eyelid and round the eye. Now gently finger-print it into the tissues with the lightest touch of the index and third fingers. Then work gently around the eyes with the third finger, always with a light touch and following the line of the muscles which run around and around the eye. If the eyelids droop, then a good corrective stroke is that of combing the eyebrows. By this I mean that a good corrective stroke is that of combing the eyebrows. By this I mean that you lift the eyebrow gently with the fingertips alternating with the third and fourth fingers.

To obliterate crowfeet and fine lines, hold the outside of your eyes firmly with the index and third fingers, then with your other hand, gently pat in the opposite direction of the lines. This patting should be very much like a fine rain patten or light finger-tip stroking.

In conjunction with the massage, if you can keep a bit of the anti-wrinkle cream on around your eyes overnight, you will find that your results will be greater and that improvement will occur sooner.

Behind the Scenes In Washington

By CHARLES P. STEWART

WASHINGTON. At first thought, one hardly appreciates the tragedy in the life story of Albert B. Fall for all it really means.

A poor, stricken old man!—the ruin of and in dishonor on the brink of the grave, after lording it among the mightiest in the land!—whom it is impossible not to pity, no matter what he may have done!

This comes readily enough to mind.

But there is worse.

Fall takes his place among America's national villains. A historic scoundrel! The first culprit ever found guilty of a felony committed as a member of the cabinet itself! A unique crime! Children will read about it in their school books, after Fall has been dead for generations. The perpetration of an enormity comparable to Benedict Arnold's!

We think of Fall as sitting, in his wheel chair, in the shadow of conviction for bribe-taking in his high office, because of his sale of vast stores of government oil to Edward L. Doheny, for a bегgerly $100,000 payment into his own pocket.

Which is quite true, literally.

But for the purposes of the story it is more dramatic to think of him as sitting where he does because of a fight he had with a stranger who crossed his path in the most casual way—but a fateful meeting and a fateful quarrel they proved to be, for Albert B. Fall.

Carl McGee was an Iowa lawyer, who had come to New Mexico for the sake of his consumptive wife's health.

Without a practice in his new environment, and realizing that it would be slow work to build one up, he was looking about for something, with an income in it, to do.

Fall owned a small newspaper, picked up in the course of some business transaction, which, being useless to him, he wanted to sell.

Mutual acquaintances brought the pair together.

If Fall could have read the future! But he lacked the gift of second sight.

A bargain was made. McGee took over the paper.

Having meanwhile had time to look about him, he was not favorably impressed with the savor of New Mexico politics. Folk do say that the state was pretty arbitrarily run then. Thinly populated—and largely by ignorant, easily manager "greasers,"—it lent itself naturally to boss rule, perhaps.

McGee thought so, at any rate.

He opened a hot fire, with his little daily, on the dominant group of which Fall was the king pin.

It may be imagined that Fall did not like this—from the paper he, himself, had disposed of to McGee, too.

Now, Albert E. Fall, for all of his pitiable feebleness today, had a reputation at that period of being an exceedingly dangerous man to defy. He warned McGee and McGee did defy him. Thereupon there seems to be no question that Fall went after McGee's scalp.

The odds at that stage of the game were entirely in Fall's favor.

His political power in New Mexico was almost absolute. McGee was poor and a stranger.

McGee, who comes to Washington occasionally, and came quite frequently when the oil inquiry was in progress, has told me that he had serious doubts for his life. Indeed, the campaign did finally lead to a homicide, though it was McGee who killed his man.

Well, McGee has chilled steel nerve. He hung on.

The oil scandals "broke," but there was nothing in connection with them at first to imply anything more than a misjudging of Fall's part, if that, in granting the Teapot Dome lease to Harry Sinclair and Elk Hill to Doheny.

However, one day the news came to McGee that his enemy had shown signs of inexplicable opulence in recent weeks. He started to investigate.

Fall, while politically powerful, had notoriously been pinched for funds. Taxes on his ranch had fallen in arrears.

McGee discovered that they had been unexpectedly paid up, in full; that Fall was restocking his range, and making extensive improvements on his property. His suspicions were aroused.

Maybe, as a public spirited citizen, he would have sounded the alarm in any event; it certainly was not a moment for him to overlook a possibly good bet, hard pressed as he was just then in his life-and-death struggle with Fall.

Hurrying to Washington, he placed his information in the senate oil inquiry committee's hands.

The sequel?

Oh, everybody knows now all that is to be known concerning the "little black bag," the subsequently mutilated $100,000 note given by Fall to Doheny, the sale to Sinclair of an interest in the Fall ranch—the whole record of the transactions leading to the verdict in Justice Hitz's court in Washington a few days ago.

School children of the future will not read all these details, but they will learn the nub of the tragedy in the story of Albert B. Fall.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS

| Lamb Shoulder Roast | Baked Sweet Potatoes |
| Molded Beet and Celery Salad | with Lettuce |
| Creamed Cauliflower | Pickled Peas |
| Sunshine Cake | Tea |

Wash and dry the lamb roast, put in roaster with a little water, season with salt and pepper, put a small onion in each end of the roasting pan and put into hot oven. After first half hour of cooking lower fire and roast until tender, allowing half an hour for each pound of meat.

Today's Recipes

Escalloped Eggplant—Peel, dice and cook eggplant about fifteen minutes, then place in casserole and pour over a sauce made as follows: One tablespoon flour, one tablespoon butter, one-half cup milk, one cup strained tomato juice. Make a cream sauce and add tomato juice, pour over diced eggplant, cover with buttered crumbs and bake in hot oven fifteen minutes.

Brown Betty—Butter a baking dish, place a layer of fine bread crumbs, then a layer of peeled and sliced apples, seasoned with sugar, cinnamon and bits of butter. Alternate layers of bread crumbs and apples, topping with the crumbs. Pour one-half cup water over it before putting in the oven. Bake one hour. Serve with hard sauce or cream.

NEW SANDWICH SPREAD PEANUT PINE SANDWICHES

(Mrs. Mary Morton's Daily Tested Recipe)—Mix one-half cup peanut butter with one tablespoon walnuts, finely chopped, one tablespoon lettuce finely shredded, three tablespoons crushed pineapple drained from juice, honey to make consistency to spread.

Diet and Health

By LULU HUNT PETERS, M. D.
Author of "Diet and Health" and "Diet for Children"

"Dear Dr. Peters: I can't tell you how well I think of you and your method of dieting—so sane and so effective. Actually I sing your praises to everybody who is kind enough to notice that my size has diminished. When I began to diet, I weighed 230 (shamefully!) and now I am down to 210, or was two weeks ago, the last time I weighed. I feel fine. Never had a bit of headache or constipation. (Wish I had done this six years ago.) Am going down over my whole body, and, believe it or not, my head size is smaller! My aim is 165—my height is five feet eight and one-half inches. MRS. F."

Twenty pounds as compared to the 50 and 100 pounds that are lost by so many of the followers, doesn't seem so much, does it? But in reality, it is a good deal. Think of the size of a 25-pound baby, and it will make you realize how much it is.

Yes, your head size will go down; so will your foot size, or a least the foot width will go down.

Dear Mrs. S.—There is no home medication that I know of that offers any hope in breaking up the drinking habit. The only thing you can do is to see that your husband's home surroundings are happy and healthful. Be especially sure that his diet is right, for a craving for alcohol is a depraved appetite, and not infrequently depraved appetites are due to prolonged wrong diets, especially those that are deficient in vitamins.

Not long ago I ran a letter from a young man who signed himself "Ex-Tank," who said he found that tomato juice taken whenever he felt the longing for alcohol seemed to allay the desire. This may be due to the fact that tomatoes are high in vitamins and perhaps supplied a deficiency he had.

Of course, there are other factors besides deficient diets in alcoholism and drug addiction. There is certainly a weakness of the moral fibre which requires a firm guidance and perhaps supervision, as well as gentleness and tact. There may be a psychological factor involved—some psychic of childhood days, perhaps, that help cause this weakening, so the guidance of an expert psychiatrist would be helpful.

The best thing I can suggest for you, Mrs. S., is to see if you can't get your husband into a modern institute devoted to the cure of alcoholism and drug addiction, for in these places they take all these factors into account and treat the patient from all angles.

If you don't know of any such institutions, ring up your county medical society.

Mrs. S.—See a physician about your breasts. That discharge is not normal. From your description, it may be a simple abscess which will clear up when it is drained. But you should see your physician! A woman should never allow any abnormal condition of the breasts to go on, because the breast is so frequently the seat of cancerous changes, especially after 40 years of age.

If you are interested in literature on cancer, write to the American Society for the Control of Cancer, 25 West 43rd street, New York City.

Living and Loving

By MRS. VIRGINIA LEE

"DEAR VIRGINIA LEE: I am a young married woman 24 years old and have no children. I have been married five years and have worked most of the time. I am helping by husband hush corn now. He never buys me any pretty clothes, as he doesn't approve of it, but he likes to dress up and go out and talk about how other girls are dressed. He doesn't stay home much of the time. I am letting my hair grow, and it is straight and want a permanent, and he wants me to keep it bobbed so he won't need to pay out the money to have it arranged so that both of us can go to the movies."

Does my hubby love me or is he jealous of me? PETE."

He may love you, Pete, but he loves himself and the shekels more. If you take care of the home and work outside besides, you are certainly entitled to pretty clothes and the permanent you crave.

Does he handle all the money? If not, take part of what you earn and get what you want. If he does, tell him you won't work unless you get some money for yourself.

A working wife certainly has a harder time than her husband, for she holds down two jobs, while he only has one, and money matters should be arranged so that both have some money of their own when house expenses, insurance and savings are deducted from the sum total of their salaries.

ANXIOUS: The boy friend belonged to the other girl, didn't he, in the first place? He merely went with her because he couldn't go with her when she was away? It was unfortunate that you grew to like him in that time.

If things had been the other way around, and you had been going with a boy who went away and was just friend, to another in the meantime, you can see that you would think it all right to go back to the first one when he came back, wouldn't you? If you can follow that somewhat involved sentence, I think you have a good start for being popular right now, and probably will be more so as you grow older and have more poise.

WEARY BROWN EYES: It is a bit mixed up, isn't it, dear? But the boy you love seem: to have the sporting idea, it seems to me. He won't "cut in" on the boy friend, while you seem to welcome the idea of trying to win him away from your girl friend.

If you can't be happy going with your old boy friend, who loves you, break with him, but don't try to get the girl friend's boy away from her. Let things drift for awhile and see if they won't straighten out.

FAITHFUL writes to cheer "Just Waiting," who feared the girls thought him a flat tire because he went to church and Sunday school.

She is 23 and in much the same position, for she finds that young men are not much interested in church and she is, and is a teacher in the Sunday school. She is sure Still Waiting will be richly rewarded for his 18 years' Sunday school attendance.

UNLUCKY KID: You can write the boy a letter if you wish, but there is no occasion, as you answered his card with another and he could write if he wanted to continue the correspondence. The asks the girl to wear his ring or pin, if he wants her to. You are pretty young to have dates, but if your parents know the boys, and approve, there is no harm in an occasional one. Be friendly and you will find you will make friends.

"DEAR VIRGINIA LEE: I am a girl 18 years old and keep house for my father and three brothers. I am starting to go out with other fellows, but my brothers don't approve and call me wild when I have not had a special date yet. My father doesn't seem to care much. I have a girl friend who is quite peppy but is decent, and they call me wild on account of her. Please advise me. Am I too young to go with fellow? I always refuse a bum when he asks me to go with him. Shall I listen to my brothers? One is younger and one older than me. I always have their meals on time and don't see why they should have so much to say."

"LONESOME JAKE":

Brothers are like that, my dear. They always think they should run sister's affairs. I shouldn't pay much attention to them unless they advise you against going with a certain fellow whom they know is all right. You are old enough to have boy friends, and as long as you are discreet there is no reason why you shouldn't have a good time with the rest of the young people.

BROKEN HEARTED BLONDIE:

Why not write the boy friend a little note and tell him that if you hurt his feelings through your kidding you are sorry and will try not to do it again. If he doesn't respond to that, you will have to let him go, as there is no use run after him, winning your hands and moaning.

He should have known you better in the first place, than to think you would deliberately hurt his feelings, and in the second place, he hurt you by what he said, so he too, should apologize.

Worth's new collection is to be built around the bathing suit motif, he declares. Form moulding lines are to be used, and the natural waistline, as no one wears a sports belt around the hips.

FRAMED by Phil

On the ground that he intends to enter the life insurance business at Columbus, C. W. Bolen, better known perhaps as "Shifty" Bolen, has resigned as coach of football teams at Wilmington College and it has been accepted by B. O. Skinner, college president. Bolen's successor will probably not be appointed until next summer as the resignation does not become effective until the close of the present gridiron season.

While coaching football at Wilmington, Bolen put the school on the athletic map. He taught basketball, basketball and track as well as football. Graduating from Ohio State, where he was a football star, Bolen came to Wilmington in 1923.

An interesting announcement for local fans is that Joe Sekyra, Dayton light-heavyweight contender now making his headquarters at New York, has been matched for a return bout with Pedlar Palmer, the "Black Dempsey," at Memorial Hall, Dayton, Wednesday night, November 13. They will box twelve rounds to a decision at a weight of 174 pounds.

In their last meeting at Dayton, Sekyra came in at catch weights, which gave him an advantage of some ten or twelve pounds over Palmer, but at 174 pounds the weight matter will be even as Palmer will weigh about 172 in his best fighting form. The winner will probably get a crack at Maxie Rosenbloom, now being recognized as the light-heavy champion, in a bout during December at Dayton. Rosenbloom has accepted a guarantee of $4,000 for a date at Dayton against the winner.

The North Dayton Club, promoters had quite a time making this match as Joe and his manager did not relish a return bout with the vicious-looking Palmer, especially at 174 pounds. But when Rosenbloom was signed to box the winner of a Sekyra-Palmer fight for the title, Charlie Cook came to terms in a hurry as Joe is anxious to get back into the light-heavy running again. To do so he must beat Rosenbloom who declined in a bout at Madison Square Garden recently.

Joe says he will knock out the negro fighter at any weight and then reverse things with Rosenbloom, but Palmer declares he will be the baby to try out wallop with the New York Hebrew when he comes to Dayton for a title fight.

The U. of Dayton Flyers will meet a sturdy opponent when they clash with the All-Marine eleven at Dayton November 16. The Marines, whose showing had been unimpressive this season, staged a brilliant comeback when they won service football laurels and the President's Cup from the Coast Guard in a game played at Washington last Saturday.

In former years Dayton and the Marines have been well matched and have always been a great drawing card. Dayton won the first contest in 1926, 7 to 2, but the Leathernecks won the last two engagements, 6 to 0 and 7 to 0. The game between the Musketeers and Flyers Saturday may point to the probable outcome of the Marine-Dayton clash the following week-end.

ANTIOCH FENCERS MATCH WITTENBERG

Wittenberg College fencers will meet the Antioch College fencemen in the first intercollegiate match of the season at Yellow Springs Friday, November 8. It is announced, Wittenberg has agreed to meet Ohio State fencers at Columbus December 4.

The fencemen of the Wittenberg team are: W. Lyman, Oberlin; Frank Lindsay and William Boger, Piquette; and William Boger, Piquette. Billings is the Lutheran team's sabre wielder and Van S. Wunler, Springfield, captain of the team, is the epee performer.

Wittenberg's team will be completely unopposed for its battles.

SEASON FRIDAY IN WILMINGTON GAME

Face to face with the last opportunity to win a football game this season, Cedarville College's football squad will exert every effort to register a victory over Wilmington College in a return game on the Cedarville gridiron Friday afternoon.

Marking the final game of the season for the "Yellow-Jackets," the contest will also provide the Borstmen with another chance to record a long-awaited victory over the Quakers and the odds are believed to be in Cedarville's favor.

Encouraged by the fact Wilmington was held to a scoreless tie last October 5, Cedarville gridironers are confident that Wilmington's eleven years of athletic supremacy will be brought to an end.

The Wilmington camp is shrouded in gloom this week because of the probability that Paul "Pop" Boxwell, stalwart Xenia full-back, may not be able to play against Cedarville because of a bad leg bruise, characterized by the team's physician as the worst he has ever treated.

Followers of the Borstmen recall that the annual Wilmington-Cedarville football tilt played at Cedarville last fall was won by the Quakers only after the hardest kind of a struggle. The score was tied 20 to 20 at the end of the third quarter and it was only through the medium of a fourth period rally that Wilmington won 32 to 20. In a preceding game with Cedarville, the score was 40 to 6 in Wilmington's favor.

The game will also be the swan song for Coach "Shifty" Bolen as athletic mentor of Wilmington teams insofar as guiding a Wilmington football team against a Cedarville eleven is concerned since his resignation takes effect at the close of the present grid season. The Quakers are therefore expected to put forth their best efforts for the retiring coach.

Friday's tilt is scheduled to start at 2:30.

START VOLLEY BALL TOURNAMENT AMONG HIGH SCHOOL TEAMS

A volleyball tournament in which twelve junior high and seven senior high teams are competing, was begun at Xenia Central High School Thursday and the first round of play in both divisions was completed Thursday and Friday.

The tourney is an elimination affair and names of well known Ohio colleges and universities have been chosen by the nineteen conceding teams. Names of the larger schools have been given to the senior high teams.

It is planned to wind up the tournament by Thanksgiving Day in order that the winners of junior high and senior high may meet for the school championship. The final game will probably be played during activity period when the entire student body and the public will have an opportunity to witness the tilt.

The tournament is in charge of Glen Paterson, assistant coach. The second round will be played next week.

Results of games played in the first round in junior high follow: Capital beat Otterbein, 17 to 13; Marietta beat Deafness, 17 to 11; University of Dayton defeated Mt. Union, 14 to 12; Wooster licked Kenyon 17 to 9; Wilmington bested Ashland, 17 to 13; Ohio Northern bested Hiram, 17 to 9.

In the senior high, Cincinnati drew a first round bye Friday morning, while Denison eliminated Ohio Wesleyan, 19 to 14; Ohio University put Wittenberg out of the running, 20 to 14, and Miami rolled up a score of 44 to 25 on Muskingum.

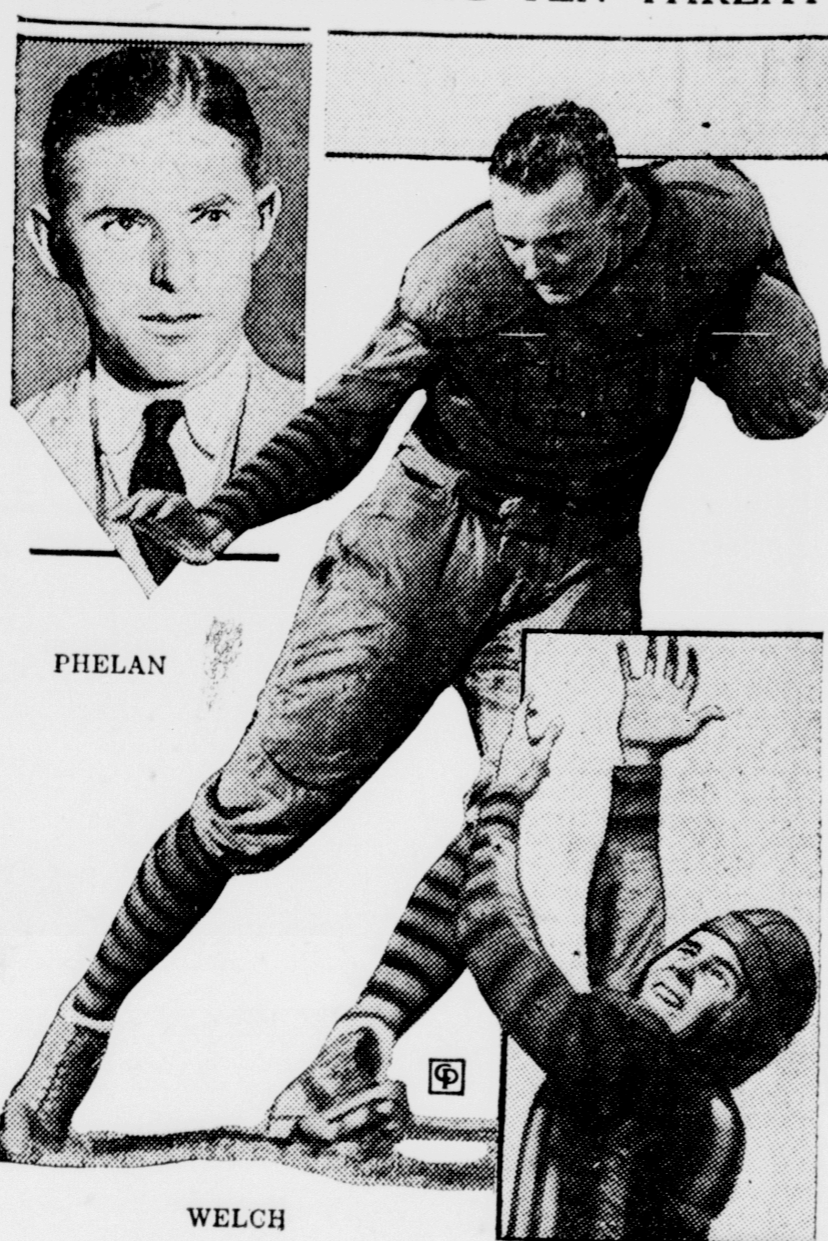

WINS WITH COIN

BELLEFONTAINE, O., Nov. 7.—Fred Sinclair is a councilman at Russell Point, a village, near here, today, a flip of a coin having given him victory over Cliff Binkly, with whom he had been tied.

Touchdown Maker

Fullback Pharnor of Minnesota leads Big Ten gridgers in scoring to date with 42 points—five touchdowns six points after touchdowns and two field goals.

Purdue University, long regarded as one of the doormats of the Western conference, appears now as the dark horse of the race for Big Ten football supremacy. Purdue's surprise conquest of Michigan has sent the Indiana school's grid stock sky high. Coach Jim Pheelan and two of his stars, Pest Welch, back, and Bill Woerner, end, shown above.

NORTHWESTERN HAS DEFEATED OHIO STATE TEAM ONLY ONCE

COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 7.—Back in 1916, Northwestern sent what was regarded as a strong football eleven to Columbus to mix with an Ohio State team.

Paddy Driscoll—the old-timers will remember him—led the Wildcats' invasion then.

The Buckeyes were regarded as the "under-dogs." Just about that time, Chic Harley made his debut in the gridiron world, and on the memorable Saturday afternoon, the greatest player who ever wore a "scarlet and gray" jersey, led his team-mates through to a 23 to 3 victory over the Evanston squad.

That is just a bit of history, and out of the past comes another statement that only once since the athletic relations between the two Big Ten universities started, has Northwestern triumphed over Ohio State.

Saturday may mark the second milestone of Northwestern's victories.

But, if Coach Sam Willaman has anything to say about the results, the invaders won't. He is at least hopeful. So are his warriors.

The old backfield combination of Horn, Holman, Holcomb and McConnell will be in the starting lineup. None of these gridgers has a sufficient scoring punch to be an outstanding threat. But if the Ohio State can hold the Wildcats, the more or less successful aerial attack of the Bucks should stand the team in good stead.

Northwestern pulled a victory from Illinois last Saturday and it assuredly has the edge because of that feat. But when the Evanston crowd arrives here tomorrow, it may be suffering from what is known as "over-confidence."

Ohio State was drubbed at the hands of the Pitt Panthers last Saturday and sometimes an old-fashioned licking like that does a team good.

All of those little things must be figured upon.

The variety of Ohio was sent through a stiff scrimmage yesterday, and it showed that there was still plenty of that noted Buckeye fighting spirit in it.

Another scrimmage is on tap for this afternoon. Only light practice is expected tomorrow, and Saturday—who knows?

BUCKLEY STARTS TERM IN ATLANTA

ATLANTA, Nov. 7.—Bert B. Buckley, former treasurer of Ohio, entered Atlanta Federal Prison today shortly after his arrival from the North to start serving a one and one-half year sentence for conspiracy and attempted bribery.

Arriving on the anniversary of his second election a year ago, the stately, graying politician appeared despondent and blamed a frame-up for his plight. "I am the pawn of the liquor traffic," he said.

COUNCILMAN WINS ONE DAY, DIES NEXT

LANCASTER, O., Nov. 7.—Patrick F. Moore, city councilman, who was re-elected at Tuesday's election, died here today following a lingering illness.

Moore, former city safety director, was Lancaster's most popular "city-father." He represented the same ward here fourteen years. He was re-elected Tuesday without any opposition. Few cared to run against him because of his popularity.

BERLIN ELECTS CENTER CAPTAIN

BERLIN, O., Nov. 7.—Vic Gowdy, star center of the Oberlin College eleven, today has the honor of piloting his teammates for the remainder of the football season.

Previously, it had been the custom for Coach Macschon to appoint a temporary captain for each game. However, following a practice session yesterday, the team held an election and decreed otherwise, bestowing the honor of permanent captain for this year upon Gowdy.

LIKE A CRYSTALLIZED RAY OF LIGHT

Several years ago, a deep red diamond was found. It remains unique in all the world, though diamonds of blue, green, yellow and even brown tints are reasonably common. The perfect diamond, however, holds in its facets all the hues of the rainbow. Like a ray of light, it is colorless, yet a myriad of colors. We are proud to display among our gems, many perfect diamonds, some unmounted, some in exclusive mountings.

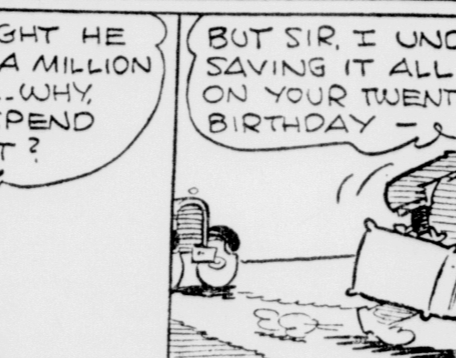

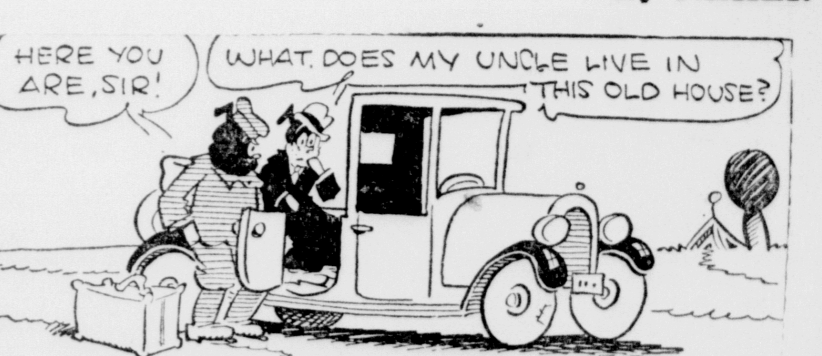

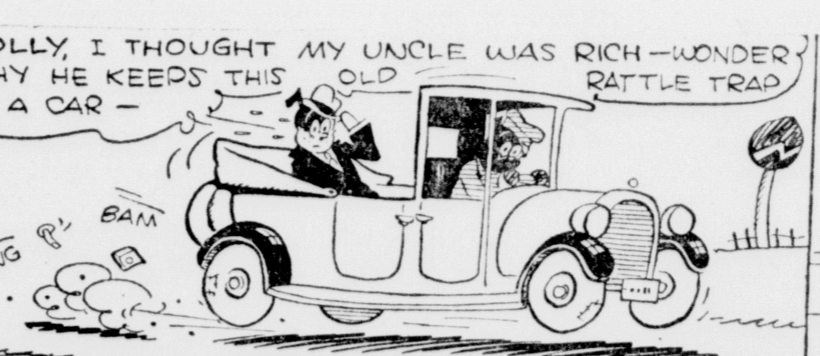

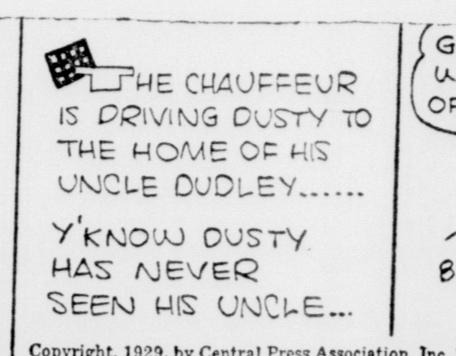

A complete line of Elgin Wrist and Strap Watches are always displayed in our incomparable stock.

TABULATION OF VOTES FAILS TO CHANGE ELECTION RESULTS

Tabulation of the official vote recorded in Xenia and Greene County on the more important issues at stake at Tuesday's election, completed by the board of elections Thursday, served only to slightly increase or decrease the majorities of the successful candidates and made no changes in the results.

Attorney E. Dawson Smith, successful candidate for judge of Xenia's new municipal court, picked up eleven votes in the official count, giving him a total of 1,343. Attorney J. P. Kyle, his defeated opponent, lost six votes and dropped to 1,261.

RELIEF FROM CURSE OF CONSTIPATION

A Battle Creek physician says, "Constipation is responsible for more misery than any other cause."

But immediate relief has been found. A tablet called Rexall Orderlies attracts water from the system into the lazy, dry, evacuating bowel called the colon. The water loosens the dry food waste and causes a gentle, thorough movement without forming a habit or ever increasing the dose.

Stop suffering from constipation. Chew a Rexall Orderlie at night. Next day bright. Get 21 for 25c today at the nearest Rexall Drug Store. H. L. Sayre's Drug Store. —Adv carried Greene County by an official plurality of 503 votes, the vote being: yes, 3,402; no, 2,899.

Contrary to early indications, the proposed continuance of the present two-mill county road levy for another five years was defeated by a margin of 349 votes. The official vote was: yes, 3,249; no, 3,598.

Dr. F. M. Chambliss, county coroner, one of the candidates elected to City Commission, led the ticket with 1,212 votes, ten more than the unofficial count showed. Harry M. Fisher, who ran second, received 1,078 votes, picking up five by the official tabulation, while H. L. Binder, elected to the third commission vacancy, obtained 1,068 votes, an increase of nine over his unofficial total. The official vote registered on behalf of the remaining three commission candidates follows: Karl R. Babb, 1,008; David Cherry, 901, and J. A. Yoder, 508.

Following is the semi-official vote for the six candidates for Xenia Twp. board of education: F. A. Wolf, 282; Edna C. Bull, 256; D. T. Horner, 243; Frank Weaver, 225; Harry Hagler, 217; J. B. Harner, 165.

Unopposed candidates for the Xenia city and Greene County school boards and Xenia Twp. trustees received substantial complimentary votes.

Dr. Chambliss, who is serving his second two-year term as coroner of Greene County and has one more year to serve in that capacity, announced Thursday that he will resign the position by January 1 in order to qualify as a city commissioner, the city charter prohibiting a candidate from holding two elective offices at the same time.

INFANT DIES

Charles Albert Coons, infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Bert Coons, Hook Road, died at Espey Hospital at 10:05 o'clock Thursday morning. The child contracted a cold last Saturday, pneumonia developed and the infant was taken to the hospital Tuesday evening. The boy was born June 6, 1928. Surviving besides his parents are two sisters Mildred and Lucille. Funeral arrangements will be announced later.

A CLEAR COMPLEXION

Ruddy cheeks—sparkling eyes—most women can have. Dr. F. M. Edwards for 20 years treated scores of women for liver and bowel ailments. During these years he gave his patients a substitute for calomel made of a few well-known vegetable ingredients, naming them Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets. Know them by their olive color.

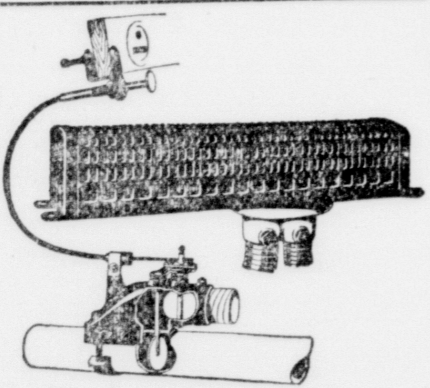

These tablets are wonder-workers on the liver and bowels, causing a normal action, carrying off the waste and poisonous matter in one's system.

If you have a pale face, sallow look, dull eyes, pimples, coated tongue, headaches, a listless, no-good feeling, all out of sorts, inactive bowels, take one of Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets nightly for a time and note the pleasing results.

Thousands of women and men take Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets—now and then to keep fit. 15c, 30c and 60c.

It was only a generation or two ago that the purchase of groceries and dry goods was conducted in an atmosphere of distrust. Wooden nutmegs and sanded sugar were perhaps extreme cases of the prevalent merchandising methods, but any well-trained housewife felt it her duty to subject the things she bought to a critical inspection. She sniffed and nibbled at foodstuffs; tapped silverware to see if it rang true; examined woollens and silks with suspicion. With so many fraudulent articles on the market one could never be sure.

Why is it that women--and men-- do their buying today with a calm confidence?

What has become of the shams?

The simple fact is that advertising has made it difficult for dishonest goods to live. People buy advertised products and know that they will be as represented. Their makers and distributors have put themselves on record.

When you use the advertising columns as a buying directory, and ask for advertised goods by name, you are assured of your money's worth.

The advertisements are your guide to sound values.

Parachute Drummer Who Had Never Jumped Is Obligated To Demonstrate

MAGRUDER MAKING A DEMONSTRATION FLIGHT EDWIN MAGRUDER

SAN DIEGO, Cal., Nov. 5.—Edwin Magruder, the newest-fashioned salesman, believes in the oldest-fashioned salesmanship. He believes in testing his own samples. Recently Magruder completed a 15,000-mile air tour of the United States in his own plane, and sold 1,000 parachutes. He had never jumped with one of the devices prior to starting the tour. Twice, however, prospective customers wanted to see him take his own medicine.

Jumps to Sell
At the Hicksville, N. Y., Aviation Country Club he jumped for the sole purpose of selling a "chute." Needless to say, he sold it.

At Cincinnati he made his second jump to convince prospective customers that the thing really worked.

"Parachutes are no longer mediums for thrilling the public," says Magruder. "They now are practical, life-saving devices."

To prove this point, Magruder's official jumper, Freddie Cole, leaped from Magruder's plane fifty times in thirty states. They also threw overboard a parachute 100 times with lead weights attached. This demonstrated their safety with heavy loads.

Chute Consciousness
Magruder found a national parachute consciousness on the part of pilots. "The old idea that a pilot should stay with his ship has disappeared."

GAMBLING FIASCO PROBED BY POLICE; CRAP GAME COSTLY

An affidavit charging him with permitting gambling at his home may be filed against William Gales, colored, as a result of an alleged dice game at the Gales home which is said to have cost Earl Glass, colored, $90, sent to him by his father in Georgia.

With the $90 as capital, Glass sat in on a crap game with Gales and T. Watson, also colored, at the Gales home, he complained to police. Mistakenly, however, overtook Glass and the ninety iron men soon reposed in the trousers pocket of Watson.

Angered at being divorced from his "roll" Glass complained so strenuously that Watson, it is said, turned his winnings over to Gales for safe keeping. Gales took the money to the home of his mother but on the following day is said to have gotten the money and spent $50 of it to outfit his children with clothes and shoes.

Glass lodged a complaint with police and all three men were brought to Police Headquarters, where investigation Wednesday, while Glass and Watson are at liberty on their own recognizance, bewailing the fact they are each $90 poorer.

ACCOUNTS; OTHERS ALLOWED TEN DAYS

Dr. Frank M. Chambliss, at present coroner of Greene County, elected to one of the three vacancies that will exist on City Commission at the close of this year, was the first candidate for public office in Greene County to file his campaign expense account with the board of elections Wednesday. Dr. Chambliss expended $41.50 on advertising, his statement revealed.

Four other candidates have also filed their required statements with the election board. Adam E. Longstreth spent $5 on advertising in his successful campaign for election as Bath Twp. justice of the peace but expended nothing on his campaign for a seat in the Fairfield village council.

No campaign disbursements were listed in the accounts of three other candidates who filed. They were: Thomas J. Smith, candidate for clerk of Fairfield village; William Lang, candidate for the Fairfield village council; and Homer L. Morgan, candidate for the Bath Twp. school board.

Announcement is being made by R. E. Dunkel, clerk of the election board, that all candidates for municipal, township or school offices in Greene County at Tuesday's election, regardless of whether they were elected or defeated, are required by law to file expense statements with the board within ten days after the election. These accounts must contain itemized list of campaign receipts and expenditures.

VOTES COST 48 CENTS EACH

VOTES cast in Greene County at Tuesday's municipal election cost forty-eight cents apiece, it is estimated by R. E. Dunkel, clerk of the board of elections.

Election board officials estimate that nearly 7,500 votes were cast. The vote on the state tax amendment totalled only 6,301 while 6,847 votes were cast for or against the county road levy. A survey indicated, however, that an average of twenty to twenty-five electors in each of the forty-eight precincts failed to vote one way or the other on the tax amendment.

It is believed that voters either failed to understand the amendment or were indifferent as to whether it carried or was defeated.

Cost of the election was about $3,602. The expense included $1,700 for judges and clerks for the forty-eight precincts, $700 for printing ballots, $602 for poll books, $300 for service and rent and about $300 miscellaneous.

URGES LAYBOURNE FOR CENSUS POST

Congressman Charles Brand, Urbana, has recommended the appointment of Stanley E. Laybourne, Clark County representative in the Ohio general assembly, as census supervisor for the Seventh Congressional District, which includes Greene County. Laybourne would succeed U. S. Commissioner Thomas F. Hudson, whose death occurred several days ago.

LAW FOR STAGE

MARCUS MCCALLISTER

No triangle is completed without three corners, in spite of what they may tell you, and so Councilor Marcus McCallister drops his copy of Gladstone for the nonce to be one of those very important corners in "Tea for Three," which will be the Theater Guild's first offering of the season at City Hall Theater Friday evening.

A lot of heroics are demanded of the barrister in this important role, and the audience will make up the jury that will decide whether he is a good actor as just part of the bric-a-brac. McCallister, Miss Margaret Little and Fred Flynn make up the merry mimes who interpret this fascinating comedy-drama of modern metropolitan life and they do say, that they are doing right well at it. Mrs. Esther Schlick, Guild director, is coaching the performers with the promise of a first-class production for the season's opening performance.

YELLOW SPRINGS TO SOLICIT $1,600 FOR COMMUNITY CHEST

Quota for the second annual Community Chest drive which will be conducted in Yellow Springs, beginning Monday, November 11, has been fixed at $1,600 an increase over the 1929 goal, it is announced. Eight social organizations expecting to derive support from the village chest fund next year, have submitted their 1930 budgets. The aggregate of the budgets together with an emergency fund maintenance.

The campaign for funds is expected to last at least a week. Carl Drake, manager of the Yellow Springs Lumber Co., has been appointed chairman of the solicitation committee and the corps of workers who will canvass the village under his direction hope to see as many prospects as possible on Armistice Day, the opening day of the drive.

Organizations which submitted their 1930 budgets include: Boy Scouts of America, Parent-Teacher Association, Social Service League, Colored Welfare League, American Red Cross, Greene Co. Health League, Colored Nursery school and the Yellow Springs Library Association.

"Give Once" has been adopted as the campaign slogan. This motto is said to appeal to the average citizen, and the soliciting committee feels confident that the quota will be over-subscribed.

Yellow Springs held its first chest drive last year and it was crowned with success.

NAMED ON COUNCIL

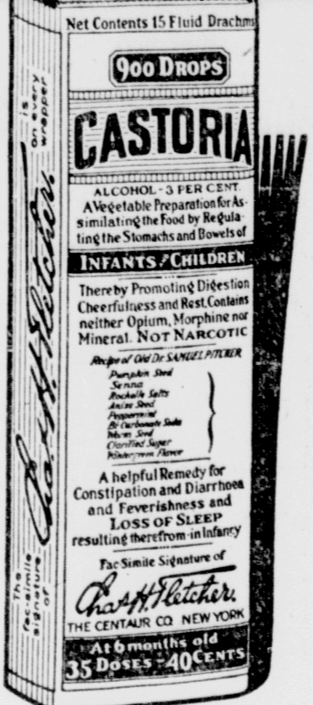

Dr. LeRoy N. Bundy, brother of Superintendent R. C. Bundy, of the Combined Normal and Industrial Department of Wilberforce University, was elected councilman representing the fourth ward in Cleveland at Tuesday's election.

Children Cry for it

Children hate to take medicine as a rule, but every child loves the taste of Castoria. And this pure vegetable preparation is just as good as it tastes; just as bland and harmless as the recipe reads. (The wrapper tells you just what Castoria contains.)

When Baby's cry warns of colic, a few drops of Castoria has him soothed, asleep again in a jiffy. Nothing is more valuable in diarrhea. When coated tongue or bad breath tell of constipation, invoke its gentle aid to cleanse and regulate a child's bowels. In colds or children's diseases, use it to keep the system from clogging. Your doctor will tell you Castoria deserves a place in the family medicine cabinet until your child is grown. He knows it is safe for the tiniest baby; effective for a boy in his teens. With this special children's remedy handy, you need never risk giving a boy or girl medicine meant for grown-ups. Castoria is sold in every drug store; the genuine always bears Chas. H. Fletcher's signature.

Yellow Springs

The W. C. T. U. will hold a special service at the Methodist Church Sunday evening, Mrs. Lem Gifford of Enoch, Tenn., national evangelist will be the speaker of the evening. A cordial invitation is extended to all.

Dr. Joseph Bartlett of Antioch College filled the pulpit in the Presbyterian Church, Sunday morning in the absence of Rev. C. H. White who is in New Richmond filling an engagement during the Ohio Presbyterian Fellowship week.

The carnival under the management of the ladies of the library was held on Dayton St., Thursday evening. Owing to the rain the crowd was not so large as last year. The parade started at 8 o'clock with the children in the march. The prizes were awarded soon after. The adults were in line and marched to the strain of music furnished by the Antioch band. Supper was served from 5 to 7:30 in the Hackett store room. The ladies will realize about one hundred and fifty dollars from the carnival which will be used toward the running expenses of the library.

The ladies of St. Paul's Church held a card party in the basement of their church Wednesday afternoon.

Mrs. Nora Henry of Devon, Pa. is here for a short time in the interest of her mother's (Mrs. Will Forbes) sale and closing up the farm business.

Mrs. George Drake is visiting her daughter Mrs. Wilbur Corry in Cleveland.

Miss Edna Huston and some friends from Springfield left by motor Wednesday for California where she will spend the winter.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Reel of Cincinnati spent the week end with Mrs. Reel's parents, Mr. and Mrs. P. M. Stewart.

Eugene Littleton, aged 24, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Littleton, died Saturday at 6:15 a. m. The funeral services were held Monday afternoon from the Presbyterian Church of which he was a member. The remains were laid to rest in the Glen Forest Cemetery.

Mrs. S. F. Weston who went to Paris to attend the wedding of her son Burns, returned home Saturday.

Mrs. Lynn Northup has been appointed chairman of the home hygiene department of Clark County Chapter, American Red Cross. Mrs. Northup is a former resident of this city but is now residing in New Moorefield where her husband is principal of the high school.

Miss Helen Anderson of McRea, Georgia, is visiting her mother, Mrs. Clarence Anderson.

Mr. and Mrs. Caud Smith of Charleston, W. Va., attended the funeral of their cousin Eugene Littleton, Monday.

Miss Grace Brummage of West Virginia, was the guest of Mrs. Frank Hazen, Sunday.

The district meeting of the Home Missionary Society of the Methodist Church will hold an all day meeting in the church Thursday, Mrs. Schneider will be the speaker.

WAGNER MAY LOCATE IN NEW STORE ROOM

The south half of a vacant room in the Clara Allen Bldg. at 6 S. Detroit St., which is being remodeled and divided into two separate store rooms, may be occupied by the L. A. Wagner jewelry store, it was learned Wednesday.

The jeweler faces the necessity of vacating his present room in an adjoining building also owned by Clara Allen, which is to be altered and occupied by the S. S. Kresge Co. operating a national chain of 5 and 10 cent stores. The north half of the partitioned room will be occupied by the Coates barber shop, which will also be moved from its present location at 4 S. Detroit St.

the JOY of LIVING

Your joy may depend upon rich, red-blood-cells

A HEALTHY body is vigorous, strong and sound. It is man and woman's greatest asset. It demands that the red-blood-cells shall not be decreased in number.

The red-blood-cells are its workers—5,000,000 to the cubic millimeter. It is dangerous to let the blood count remain below normal.

With an increase in the red-blood-cells, you will be on the right road to Health. This is Nature's way to body power and to clear skin.

You owe it to yourself and family to give S.S.S. a trial. It promotes healthy body building. It helps Nature build rich, red blood. For more than 100 years S.S.S. has been helping people regain and retain their strength and charm. It is made from strictly fresh vegetable drugs and is easy to assimilate. Pleasant to take. Thousands of users have testified to its benefits in unsolicited letters of gratitude.

S.S.S.

You will be delighted with S.S.S. blood-building and tonic effects. Take at mealtime. At all drug stores in two sizes. Ask for the larger size. It is more economical.

Fly O'er Sea Again

COTTON STOCKINGS

ALMA SIOUX SCARBERRY

READ THIS FIRST:

Rosalie March, seventeen, after the death of her mother, secures a position at the hosiery counter in a Philadelphia store through the kindness of Kenneth Du Barry, an actress. She is adored by her landlady, Mother Murphy, and little Tim O'Hara, corner newsboy. Her first day at the store she wears a pair of cotton stockings because she finds a "run" in her old pair of silk ones. After the girls at the store make fun of her Rosalie, in desperation, takes a pair of silk stockings from the stock, promising herself to make good for them pay day. In her confusion, leaving the store, she drops the hose, and is observed by Alberto Martino, the store detective, who does not detain her, but says he will see her later.

Roy Clarke Andrews, nephew of the store owner, notices Rosalie and chats with her daily. Rosalie has a boy friend, Neil McKinley, back home, but they quarreled when she left for the city.

Neil calls Rosalie unexpectedly one evening. They dine, and Neil drinks too much. Speeding down the street, they are stopped by a motor policeman, who arrests them. Neil is detained, but Rosalie is sent home. Martino, threatening arrest for taking the stockings, makes Rosalie promise to hide a suitcase in her room.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XVI

By morning Rosalie was so sorry for Neil that she would have given almost anything in the world to find out what had become of him.

How long would they keep him in that nasty jail? She thought of him as a convict and was ashamed to the core of her heart that he would do such a foolish thing. It was his mother's fault, she told herself. He hadn't been set the right example in his home. Mrs. McKinley never did go to church like other people in the town did.

Rosalie didn't believe she would ever hear from him again. And when she thought of her heart she grew heavier. Perhaps she might help him. Maybe he would be a better boy if she saw him often.

The suitcase was her first thought when she got up. It lay under the bed like an evil monster. There MUST be something wrong about it or the man wouldn't have threatened her so if she didn't "keep her trap shut." Maybe Martino did mean to harm her after all.

In the store she felt pale and listless. Ann noticed her apathy.

"You look like last year's nest, Angel Face. Out late last night?"

"Not very," Rosalie turned and fussed with some stockings that had been pawed over by customers. "I have a little headache."

"I mostly always use bromo seltzer for the morning after," Ann kidded, good naturedly.

But Rosalie didn't know what she meant, and didn't feel like asking. She tried to catch Martino's eye all day so that she might beg him to tell her what was in the heavy suitcase. But he steered clear of her counter.

It was early in the afternoon that Roy came to her. He always watched his chance when Ann went for one of her numerous powder and rouge renewing expeditions.

"Hello, little lady—and you're looking a little down in the rosy lips today."

"I have the blues," she smiled, for she was always glad to see him. "Do you ever get that way?"

"Oh I'm a regular broken hearted butterfly. I have to go out every night and smile and dance and try to forget. It's my terrible past that haunts me."

She dimpled in the way he always hoped she would.

"Do you want to bury your sorrows?" he grinned at her then. "Have you a terrible past?"

"She thought of the night before and laughed a little nervously.

"I'm afraid I'm beginning to have one. The big city is all so new and strange to me."

"Fine!" Roy approved. "Nothing like burying your sorrows when they are young and tender. Suppose we bury them together. How about driving out some place in the country and having dinner?"

Rosalie's heart never stopped beating. He was asking her to dinner! When she hesitated he stood smiling and waiting for her answer. After the experience of the night before, and Mike Flaherty's warning, she was almost afraid to go.

But there was something about Roy Andrews that seemed somehow—different. Of course, Ann had told her he was a "fast worker" and a woman chaser. But he had smiling eyes and was amusing—and surely anyone who would smile like that and be so funny couldn't be very dangerous.

"I'd rather you'd meet me a

couple of blocks away from the store," he told her when she had accepted his invitation. "Not because I am ashamed of you, little lady. I'm proud to be seen with you. But I don't want the other girls in the store to talk about you or kid you. They love to disl a little dirt."

It was sweet of him, Rosalie thought. It was because he respected her. She had heard enough gossip to know that he was right. Rosalie called Mother Murphy that she would not be home for dinner so that she would not go to the bother of setting her little private table. Mother told her to have a good time and be careful.

Roy made entering the restaurant and getting settled at a table so easy for her that she hardly felt the least little qualm. Her cheeks were pink and her hair blown in little wave wisps around her face from the drive.

"You are lovely," he leaned toward her, smiling, when they sat down. "You are youth personified. You do my old heart good."

She laughed it off—felt suddenly gay and without a worry. He picked up the menu.

"But, we came out to drown a lot of sorrows. I always find mine stay down better under the shore dinner. There's so much of it."

He ordered for her, and there was really nothing to it. How different he was from Neil. But, she excused Neil in her heart, he was much younger and hadn't lived in a big city all his life.

Roy asked her if she wanted to dance, and she hardly knew what to say. Finally she decided to be frank.

"I only danced once in my life. But, I'll try."

But, I'll try," and the "Old Windmill" was almost deserted. Rosalie felt it would not be so difficult with so few to watch her. The music was so fascinating that she forgot all about ever having been told that dancing was wicked.

Roy danced beautifully, and Rosalie did, too. It was heavenly. She felt very safe and very happy in his arms. He was so tall and strong and gay. Like a big brother.

Back at the table he ordered cracked ice and offered her a high ball. She looked a little sorry. Did everybody drink? Well, she would not scold him—unless he drank too much. He did not urge her to drink—or seem to doubt her when she said she had never taken a high ball.

"No harm in that," he had grinned. "Maybe that's how you keep the dimples and the rosy lips."

He had two highballs and did most of the talking. Of interesting things and of places he had been. She kept her ears and eyes wide open, listening and watching how the people around her did this and that, so that she would know just how to act if he ever took her out again.

On the way back he drew up to the side of the road and they looked together at the big round moon. When he pulled her to him she drew back with a faint little "please."

He smiled and started the car at once.

"I've never fought for a girl's kisses yet, little lady. And, I'm not going to start now. You just let me know when you want to be kissed."

She laughed a little foolishly. And she was just a bit sorry. What would it be like to be kissed by so charming and wonderful a man. But, after all, Neil was her boy friend. If he ever came back sorry and ashamed. And it wouldn't be fair to him.

He was horrified when he saw the section she lived in, but decided to wait until he knew her a little better to tell her she should move.

At the door he kissed her passionately. And she felt very grown up and very important—and almost happy.

FORMER XENIAN ON LEGION COMMITTEE TO PUBLISH PAPER

E. S. Myers, Middletown, formerly of Xenia, is a member of a committee of five Ohio Legionnaires which has charge of the launching of an official American Legion newspaper by the department of Ohio.

The proposed paper will be the first ever issued by the Ohio Legion, and will be distributed twice a month to the 36,000 members of the organization in Ohio, according to present plans.

Mr. Myers is now secretary and general manager of The Middletown Journal and the Middletown News-Signal at Middletown, Ohio, and is a member of the Legion post in that city. Dudley A. White, state Legion commander and manager of the Norwalk Reflector-Herald, is chairman of the committee and other members are: Carl E. (Pete) Moore, formerly of the Cleveland Plain Dealer; Charles Corbin, managing editor of the Toledo Blade; and H. Mooney, managing editor of The Ohio State Journal, Columbus.

The proposed paper will be in newspaper form, consisting of four pages of seven columns each, and will carry news of local, state and national Legion affairs. It will be financed by an increase in Legion dues of fifty cents per member each year as authorized by the state organization, which will give it an operating income of approximately $18,000 annually.

Policies of the paper, its first publication date and other details of the venture will be the subject of a meeting of the publication committee to be held in Columbus soon.

The Theater

It is reported that they are singing the blues along Hollywood Boulevard now because the recent Wall St. gymnastics took a lot of the fair movie folk over the coals.

Stars and directors, just like other human beings, had soaked a bit of the family plate on the big and little boards. When the wind began to blow in Wall St. it looked as if some of them would have to retrench and make out, somehow, with only three Rolls-Royces and two Hispano-Suizas.

But with big salaries clicking on to be the prisoner and goes to claim his wife, doesn't seem to hold the interest. Alice Brady is in it.

SEE NAPLES AND DIE, at the Vanderbilt. Elmer Rice, author of "Street Scene," wrote this one. It's a light affair, with rags that are not in best "Street Scene" style—probably written in holiday mood under blue Italian skies. Rice's devotees don't like the idea of his straying from the somber path.

IN CHICAGO
BROADWAY NIGHTS, with Texas Guinan, at the Majestic: A smutty show; gains no recommendation here.

One guess as to who this pensive little miss is. Right! Betty Compson, of course.

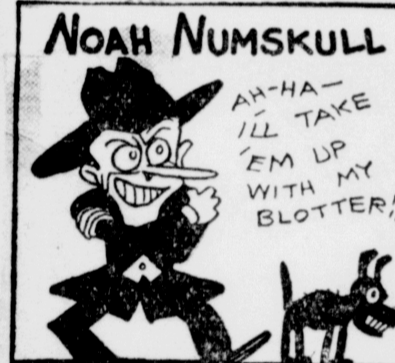

despite the stock market monkey-shines, the film folk had no need to grow a crop of gray hair and raise a set of wrinkles. Movie stars who are in thick with the theater seat warmers always know where the next meal is coming from and that there will be gravy on the potatoes.

Corinne Griffith is one of those mentioned as having been hit in the pocketbook by the drop. Norma Talmadge is reported as another and so is Colleen Moore, who was a movie actress just a few weeks ago and may soon become a movie actress again.

Chief losers, however, are said to have been film company executives. And film company stocks were hard hit too. Reports had it that the movie colony lost millions and during the collapse you could have found all your favorite stars hanging around a ticker. In Hollywood money comes fast and goes just as quickly and the film folk, as a rule, are good enough gamblers to see it go and grin.

SWIFT JUSTICE

Death Sentence For Armed Robber Brings Comment On Oklahoma Jurist.

Judge SAUL YAGER

EMMETT KELLY

By Central Press
TULSA, Okla., Nov. 7.—Does society owe the armed bandit who goes out upon the streets or highways in search of his victim, perhaps to kill him, a duty?

No, says District Judge Saul Yager from his judicial bench in Tulsa, and he emphasized this answer in a forthright manner recently when he attracted nationwide attention by sentencing a 17-year-old boy to the electric chair and a 29-year-old youth to life imprisonment when the two entered pleas of guilty before him to charges of robbery.

Bandit Potential Killer
He looks upon the bandit, they call them hijackers now, as a potential murderer, he explains, against whom society's safeguard is swift, certain justice and heavy penalties.

And when Ted Cole, 17, stood before him and admitted his guilt in connection with the robbery of a bottling works plant in Tulsa, the judge looked not upon a youth in his teens who might at some future date become a leading citizen in some town, a successful business man or the head of a family, but upon a hardened criminal, who admitted that the past six years of his life had been devoted to crime.

Cole was brought to Tulsa from the Arkansas state prison to face the charge of robbery. He had been sent up there for two years on a burglary charge.

Unmoved by Youth
His youth might have had some effect upon the majority of judges. But Judge Yager, who already has made the courts of the country sit up and look about by the suddenness with which he dispenses justice, followed the law as he saw it.

The Oklahoma legislature has provided that persons who commit the crime of robbery with a gun shall be subject to death. The southwest has been a breeding place for bandits for years. Many notorious names have blazed into infamy out of this young, rapidly growing territory.

These names will remain out of history if more judges will take Yager's attitude, authorities believe.

The Judge's Code
Here is the code of ethics which forth: "The interests of the armed hijacker, who goes out with the purpose of holding up and perhaps killing his victim, is directly opposite to the interests of society. "There is the question. Whose interests are paramount, society's or the hijacker's? To me there is but one answer, society's. "I have a feeling of compassion for the man accused, whether he is 17 or 77, but at the same time it is my duty and desire to protect the interests of the citizens who may be the next victim of these potential murderers. "But I do not propose to wait until someone is killed before acting to check such a danger!"

Tulsa and the country gasped at the swiftness of his judgment.

Gives Second Sentence

Twenty-four hours later another case went out. Judge Yager sentenced Emmett Kelly, 29, Wellston, Ohio, youth, to life imprisonment when he entered a plea of guilty to a charge of stealing $1.15 worth of gasoline and oil at the point of a gun.

Kelly told a pitiful story of privations, of the anxiety he and his young wife had to reach Arizona for his health. He told the court he had a navy record. He and his wife had stopped in Tulsa, broke.

Commended and Condemned
Commendation and protests alike have come to the Tulsa jurist. Authorities whose duty it is to uphold the law and suppress crime unite in commendation. Some citizens feel that the jurist was too severe.

In the meantime, Cole and Kelly have gone to the state prison at McAlester, the former to death row, the other to begin long years in prison.

"They'll never send me to the chair," hopes Cole. "The people of the state won't let 'em."

BEAVER GIRLS WILL PRESENT COMEDY

"All On Account of Polly", a comedy in three acts written by Harry L. Newton, will be presented by the Girls' Missionary Guild of the Beaver Reformed Church, at the K. of P. Hall at Alpha, Friday evening at 8 o'clock.

The cast of characters in order of appearance is as follows: "Harkins", a butler, Elizabeth Ankeney; "Baldwin", only son of Ralph Beverly, Ruby Marshall; "Mrs. Ralph Beverly", Ruth Mun-

"Ralph Beverly", Polly's Guardian, Thelma Barth; "Hortense", his elder daughter, Louise Crawford; "Silas Young", a money lender, Helen Crawford; "Geraldine", a sister of Hortense, Helen Jones; "Miss Rembert", a manicurist, Rae Barth; "Miss Bushnell", a hair dresser, Florence Riley; "Peter Hartleigh", Beverly's prospective son-in-law, Marietta Shoup; "Polly Perkins", a small-town girl, Florence Robertson; "Pudgy", a poor little girl, Beulah Engle; "Tommy", her brother, Lillian Marshall; "Mrs. Herbert Featherstone", of the "400", Lillian Gilbert; "Mrs. Clarence Chadfield", a social climber, Myrtle Bennington.

Youth Has Found The Way!

AN ANCIENT PREJUDICE HAS BEEN REMOVED

AMERICAN INTELLIGENCE has cultivated the fertile field of opportunity and invites everyone to roam in search of desired pursuits. Nothing remains of that ancient prejudice which bound the apprentice, without choice, to his career.

"toasting did it"—

Gone is that ancient prejudice against cigarettes—Progress has been made. We removed the prejudice against cigarettes when we removed harmful corrosive ACRIDS (pungent irritants) from the tobaccos.

YEARS ago, when cigarettes were made without the aid of modern science, there originated that ancient prejudice against all cigarettes. That criticism is no longer justified. LUCKY STRIKE, the finest cigarette you ever smoked, made of the choicest tobacco, properly aged and skillfully blended—"It's Toasted."

"TOASTING," the most modern step in cigarette manufacture, removes from LUCKY STRIKE harmful irritants which are present in cigarettes manufactured in the old-fashioned way.

Everyone knows that heat purifies, and so "TOASTING"—LUCKY STRIKE'S extra secret process—removes harmful corrosive ACRIDS (pungent irritants) from LUCKIES which in the old-fashioned manufacture of cigarettes cause throat irritation and coughing. Thus "TOASTING" has destroyed that ancient prejudice against cigarette smoking by men and by women.

"It's toasted"

No Throat Irritation—No Cough.

TUNE IN—The Lucky Strike Dance Orchestra, every Saturday night, over a coast-to-coast network of the N. B. C.

"It's Toasted"—the phrase that describes the extra "toasting" process applied in the manufacture of Lucky Strike Cigarettes. The finest tobaccos—the Cream of the Crop—are scientifically subjected to penetrating heat at minimum, 260°—maximum, 300°, Fahrenheit. The exact, expert regulation of such high temperatures removes impurities. More than a slogan "It's Toasted" is recognized by millions as the most modern step in cigarette manufacture.

AGED CEDARVILLE RESIDENT CALLED WEDNESDAY NIGHT

W. Harve Owens, 83, retired blacksmith of Cedarville, died at his home on Xenia Ave. in that village at 8 o'clock Wednesday night as a result of a paralytic stroke. He was stricken ten days ago and had been in failing health for several years.

Mr. Owens retired from active work ten years ago. He was a member and a trustee of the Methodist Church in Cedarville and for more than thirty years served as secretary of the Sunday school department, being active in church work for many years.

He was born April 7, 1846, the son of Henry and Ellen Crawford Owens.

Surviving is his widow, Hattie, to whom he had been married for more than fifty years; a daughter, Mrs. John Lott, Pittsburgh; a son, Harry Owens, Detroit, Mich.; two sisters, the Misses Martha and Etta Owens, near Cedarville; and two brothers, Calvin, near Cedarville, and Thomas, Cedarville.

Funeral services will be conducted at 2:30 o'clock Friday afternoon at the Methodist Church in Cedarville with interment in North Cemetery, Cedarville.

A family doctor's laxative is the sensible choice!

YOUR health is too important!
You can't afford experiments with your delicate bowels when a coated tongue, bad breath, gas, headaches, nausea, feverishness, biliousness, lack of appetite, and no energy, warn of constipation. This applies not only to grown people; it is particularly the case where young children are concerned.

That's why a family doctor's laxative is always the safe choice! Only a doctor knows just what will cleanse the system of men, women or children without harm.

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is prepared today under strict supervision from freshest herbs and other pure ingredients, and exactly according to Dr. Caldwell's original prescription.

He was a family doctor for more than forty-seven years. He specialized in the disorders of the digestive tract. He tested this prescription in thousands of cases. Men liked its quick and thorough action; the children liked its pleasant taste; old people praised it because it never gripes.

Today, millions of families rely on Dr. Caldwell's judgment in the selection of their laxative. Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is now sold in all drug stores. It is the world's largest selling laxative.

TEAM AT CENTRAL; ARRANGE MATCHES

Personnel of the debating team organized to represent Xenia Central High School in inter-scholastic competition during the 1929-30 school year, is being announced.

Four boys and four girls compose the debating squad, which will be divided into a negative team composed of three members and an alternate and an affirmative team of three members and one substitute.

Students selected on the squad are: the Misses Martha Cummings, Emily Dean, Alice Gordon and Virginia Guyton, and Ralph Baldwin, Harold Bull, Hugh Espey and David Patton.

The negative team will visit Miamishburg High School for a debate December 6 and on the same date the affirmative team will have a debate at the high school here against Clarksville Vernon High. Debates with Middletown, Hamilton, Lockland and West Chester High Schools are scheduled for next January.

The team will debate both sides of the question: "Resolved—That trial before a judge or board of Xenia Central has joined the Ohio High School Debating League, organized under the auspices of the public speaking department of Ohio State University.

Superintendent Louis Hammerle, Principal F. R. Woodruff and W. C. Boyce, English teacher, were instrumental in formation of the team and will have charge of the squad.

TAX MEASURE LOST BY 1,100 IN 1925

Whereas at the 1925 election Greene County voters disapproved of the proposed tax classification amendment to the state constitution by a margin of 1,100 votes, the amendment up for consideration again at Tuesday's election, was approved in Greene County by an official majority of 503 votes, comparative figures disclose.

According to official figures announced Thursday by the board of elections, 3,402 votes were cast in favor of the amendment and 2,899 against it. In 1925 the vote was 2,143 in favor of the proposal and 3,260 against it.

PRICES BOOSTED
Increases of 5 to 20 Per Cent On Auto Tires.

United Press
AKRON, O., Oct. 28.—General advance in the prices of tires is being reported today by three leading rubber companies. Three leading rubber companies today have been re-announced that prices have been raised upwards from 5 to 25 per cent. The Goodyear Tire & Rubber Co. made the first announcement with a report that their prices were to be increased "less than 5 per cent." This step was quickly followed by the B. F. Goodrich Co. and General Tire & Rubber Co. General announced an advance of 10 per cent on small tires and an increase that would amount to 25 per cent on bus and truck sizes. Firestone Tire & Rubber Co. is the only major Akron Rubber concern that has not yet announced an increase. All the smaller concerns are expected to follow the lead taken by Goodyear.

State P-T-A. President Speaks In Xenia

MRS. Minnie Hamilton Schaffer, Dayton, president of the state P-T-A. A. Council, and a member of the Dayton Board of Education, was the guest speaker at the Xenia P-T-A. dinner at Central High School cafeteria, Wednesday evening.

Mrs. Schaffer said, "I am greatly indebted to you for this opportunity of meeting and knowing you. It is a great pleasure and privilege to be your leader and I am proud to represent the greatest organization in the world, an organization that is advancing, greater than any other organization in America."

"In Ohio, we have 90,000 members and 1003 associations. Ohio is third in membership in the United States."

She told of the three objectives of the state P-T-A. for the coming year, which are: summer roundup, rural life, and parental education.

She stressed parental education by saying, "Every child is potentially a good adult. Most undesirable adults are made, not born—made by unintelligent treatment in youth by adults. The social sins of youth are not hereditary; they are as a rule acquired through mis-education at the hands of adults, in the home, the street, the school, vicious movies and wrong books. Parental ignorance is responsible for the endless stream of childhood's sorrow, in as well as out of the courts. There is no cure except in parental understanding of the nature, needs, and necessities of youth and their guidance in the light of this understanding. The state department of education is co-operating with the state officials of the P-T-A. to make the parents in the state of Ohio, interested in parental education. Therefore, the one important project of the P-T-A. this year is parental education."

REPORTS GIVEN AT MISSIONARY MEET

Interesting reports by several members featured the meeting of the Women's Missionary Society of the Second United Presbyterian Church, at the church Wednesday afternoon. Forty members attended the meeting.

The meeting was opened with devotions, led by Miss Jeanette Morrow. Mrs. J. Weir Cooper gave some very interesting facts on the temperance work of today. The subject for study for the afternoon was "Ancient and Modern Europe," Mrs. J. Harry Nagley reading an interesting paper on "The Glory of Ancient Egypt," while the subject of Mrs. Raymond Hopping's paper was "Modern Egypt."

The report of the treasurer was given and showed an increase. A letter of thanks for the box of fruit sent to the Old Folks Home at Pittsburgh was read by the association secretary. All invitation from the Missionary Society of the First U. P. Church was read, inviting the Second U. P. members to attend a meeting Tuesday, November 12. A report of the meeting of the Presbyterian at the Second U. P. Church, October 17, given by Mrs. Jennie Conlin, closed the program for the afternoon.

MRS. KEITER ENTERTAINS MISSIONARY SOCIETY.

The Missionary Society of the United Brethren Church, held its regular monthly meeting at the home of Mrs. John Keiter, 537 W. Second St., Wednesday afternoon. Mrs. C. E. Trubee president of the organization, read the devotions. A program of readings and talks was given from the study book "Jerusalem to Jerusalem." There were twelve members present and a social hour followed the meeting. The hostess was assisted by Mrs. Burgess Crumrine and Mr. Martin Newcomer, in serving a light refreshment course.

MISS ELEANOR McDONNELL ENTERTAINED WEDNESDAY.

Honoring Miss Eleanor McDonnell, winner of the southern Ohio division of the Atwater Kent Radio Audition, recently held at Columbus, Mrs. A. G. Warren, delightfully entertained at her home on Center St., Wednesday evening with a chicken dinner.

Following the dinner games of five hundred were in play. The house was beautifully decorated with fall flowers for the occasion. Members of Miss McDonnell's family and the hostess' family were present.

EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE ENTERTAINED WEDNESDAY

Members of the new executive committee of the Business and Professional Woman's Club entertained members of last year's executive committee at the home of Mrs. Henrietta Logan Schultz, E. Second St., with a cafeteria supper, Wednesday evening.

Games and contests were in play throughout the evening and contest prize was awarded Miss Nelle McKay.

Miss McKay entertained following the contests by reading palms.

Mr. and Mrs. G. H. Fuller, S. Detroit St., returned home last week after enjoying a two week's visit in Ashtabula County and around the lakes. They were accompanied home by Mr. Fuller's sister, Miss Lillian Fuller, who will remain here this winter.

Condition of Mr. Walter Heather, S. Detroit St., who was injured recently in an automobile accident on Cincinnati Ave., is improving as well as could be expected.

Dr. and Mrs. J. M. Chittum, West Liberty, Iowa, have returned to their home after spending three weeks here with Dr. Chittum's brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Chittum, Krepps Road. During their stay here they were accompanied by Miss Pauline Chittum on a visit to relatives in Collierstown, Va.

The meeting of the Gleaners' Class of the First M. E. Church has been postponed from the second Monday to the third Monday of November.

Mrs. Raymond Doggett, Thornhill Ave., returned home Wednesday afternoon after spending a few days with Miss Ethel Baldwin of Muncie, Ind., and Mrs. L. M. Ramsey and Miss Myel Hough of Cowan, Ind.

Miss Robert Kelly, E. Main St., accompanied Mrs. Rachel Kelly to Toledo Tuesday where they will remain a few days. Mrs. Kelly will then go to Cleveland where she will visit a cousin, Miss Collins, before going to New York where she will join Mrs. Mary Meredith and Mrs. Mary Little Dice. They will sail from New York by way of the Panama Canal for Los Angeles, Calif., and from there will go to South America later.

Mrs. C. E. Arbogast, N. King St., is visiting this week with her mother, Mrs. Fred Keisker, Louisville, Ky.

Mrs. W. H. Tilford and Miss Zeila Soward, this city, spent Thursday in Madison, Ind., where they were in charge of a musical program at the church where Miss Soward directs the choir.

Mrs. Walter Stearns, who underwent a serious operation at City Hospital, Springfield, was removed to her home, south of Xenia, Wednesday. Her condition is very much improved.

Mrs. L. H. Hartsook entertained twenty-five members of the Eleazar Aid Society, at her home, south of Xenia, Wednesday afternoon. A short business session was held, followed by a social hour, during which the hostess served a refreshment course.

Mr. H. A. Esterline, Cincinnati Ave., is confined to his home this week because of the grip.

Trinity M. E. Church choir will meet for rehearsal Friday evening at 7:30 o'clock. All members are urged to be present.

Mrs. Jennie Parrett, Lima, arrived here Wednesday to spend several weeks with Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Mason, Wilmington Pike.

MEDICAL SOCIETY MEETS THURSDAY

Miss Zoe McCaleb, Columbus, from the state department of health, was the guest speaker at the regular monthly meeting of the Greene County Medical Society in the assembly room of the Court House, Thursday morning. She talked on "Public Health Nursing."

Dr. Leslie Sontag, Antioch College physician, gave a short talk concerning the Fels Fund to the college.

"Prenatal Care" was the subject of Dr. R. R. McClellan's talk. The society passed a resolution asking city commission to pass a new ordinance on the pasteurization of milk.

HAMILTON FREED OF MURDER CHARGE TO RESUME PRACTICE

WEATHERFORD, Tex., Nov. 7.—Judge R. H. Hamilton, on trial here for murder in connection with the slaying of his 21-year-old son-in-law, Tom Walton, was a free man today, after being acquitted by a jury which deliberated only one hour and forty-five minutes.

Three ballots were taken in the jury deliberations. The first was eight to four for acquittal; the second eleven to one; and the third stood for acquittal. The jury returned its verdict so quickly that Judge Hamilton was not even in the courtroom. He had retired to his hotel room for sleep. It was several minutes before news of his acquittal reached him.

Tom Walton, who was secretly married to Theresa Hamilton, 17-year-old daughter of the accused judge, was slain in the law offices of the Amarillo jurist last May 4, after the two men had struggled for a pistol in possession of the accused, it was brought out in evidence at the trial.

Hamilton pleaded self-defense and with an army of twelve lawyers built up a defense wall that could not be torn down. Evidence was repeatedly recited by defense witnesses purporting to show that Walton had threatened the life of the former assistant state attorney general and member of the state appeals commission.

MARKET RALLIES AS SEQUEL TO OPENING DECLINE THURSDAY

NEW YORK, Nov. 7.—Stock prices rallied sharply today after slumping 5 to 12 points at the opening. In spectacular fashion, United States Steel, a pivotal issue, after opening 7 points lower at 162, came back 13 points to 175, and the general list became firmer.

Again this morning, trading was heavy, sales the first half hour aggregating 2,400,500 shares compared with 1,157,400 the corresponding period yesterday.

The reaction from the opening slump came at 11 o'clock. American Can which had declined 12 points to 103, reacted to 112. Johns Manville, which opened down 7 to 95, came back to 101. American and Foreign Power which opened at 54, off 6, sold up to 65. Radio, after opening at 31, down 1-2, moved up to 35 and Montgomery Ward, which lost 5 1-2 points to 52 at the opening, recovered to 55.

Wall Street observers were somewhat mystified at the opening "break," coming as it did on the heels of the declines of Wednesday. The consensus among the well-informed was that speculators here, physician, gave a short talk concerning the Fels Fund to the college.

Thousands of speculators have been wiped out, having been unable to raise money to meet their margins. Then, too, there is a wariness on the part of countless other potential buyers of stocks from getting into the market because of the recent downward swing in prices.

Yet, with the return of security prices to the present low levels, many other investors combed the list carefully for stocks offering attractive yields and reasonable prospects of continued good earnings. There is a vast army of people with money, eager to invest rather than to merely speculate on margins. But they are operating cautiously.

Brokers urged conservatism.

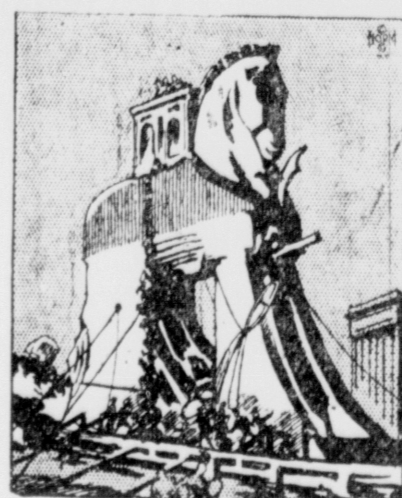

They were agreed, however, on the intrinsic merit of the common stocks of many of the industrial leaders of the country.

The Wall St. banking group that stands ready to stabilize the market has not regarded the situation at present of sufficient seriousness to warrant regular meetings. This group, which consists of J. P. Morgan and Company, First National Bank, National City Bank, Bankers Trust Company, Guaranty Trust Company and Chase National Bank did not convene yesterday. They were watching the situation closely today, however, just as they did yesterday.

Day by day speculators are being closed out by demands for additional money to meet their margins. Another flock of margin calls went out last night from commission houses.

BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY

ASSURED SUCCESS—Whoever heareth my sayings, and doeth them, is like a man which built a house, and digged deep, and laid a foundation on a rock; and when the flood arose, the stream beat vehemently upon that house, and could not shake it; for it was founded upon a rock.—Luke 6:47, 48.

ORCHID IS SYMBOL

Hundreds of Americans who have never seen an orchid, and hundreds of other citizens who have only seen one in a florist's window or in a public conservatory, may be surprised to hear that an orchid nursery started 22 years ago in the east was recently sold for $2,500,000. In this nursery the cultivation of orchids was a business. Some wealthy individuals in the United States collect orchids as a hobby, but the man who operated this nursery did so because he wanted to make money. The greenhouses contain 135,000 flowering specimens, including rare ones valued at several hundreds of dollars apiece.

Orchid culture began in England in 1820, but did not develop in the United States until after the Civil war. Growth and propagation of these delicate flowers require painstaking care, seven years being the time necessary to bring a flower to maturity. The flower is a parasite, a native of tropical countries.

To American imaginations the orchid has long symbolized great wealth and a life of leisure. The fact that commerce in orchids for one establishment alone can have a value of millions indicates that the United States is a land where luxuries are commonplace.

HEALTHFUL OUTCOME

The sentence of the court delivered in the Fall bribery case will be approved generally by the country; and the fact that there is to be a prolonged stay of execution because the ex-secretary is appealing to the supreme court does not diminish the generally healthful effect of the outcome of the trial. The jury found in accordance with the facts; the judge ordered a punishment which is appropriate without being excessive in the case of a physically broken man. The record is clear. People in high places of trust in this country cannot take to shady and dishonest courses and get away with it. They are subject to the laws and to penalties provided in the laws just as other people are. The whole outcome of the case is a vindication of justice, and is a warning to any who may need one.

The Soviet regime in Moscow has just shot another batch of 26 "enemies." Which perhaps only proves that some people do not recognize the millenium when it is introduced to them.

Most of the things we worry and fuss over today aren't of the least importance tomorrow, and none of them mean anything ten years hence.

Bo-Broadway

By JOSEPH VAN RAALTE

NEW YORK, Nov. 5.—Heard by two "hams" who haven't seen the inside of a dressing room since Doc Demosthenes swallowed pebbles on the Greek beach.

"How old is your kid?"

"Four months old."

"What! Four months old and not working?"

PHILADELPHIA JACK'S BUSINESS

Philadelphia Jack O'Brien, erstwhile light heavyweight champ, has a Broadway gym where he beats the over-fed matrons and brokers of Park avenue back into Social Register shape. Jack is arranging another "Battle of the Century" when the old-timers, Jim Jefferies, Jim Flynn, Jack Monroe, Tommy Burns, Jess Willard, "Gentleman Jim" Corbett, Jack Sharkey and others will once more don their fighting togs for a final fling in the Squared Circle.

GEORGE AND SAM TOGETHER AGAIN

"Way back in the dim and dusty past, when Equity first came into being, George Cohan and Sam Harris were partners. They split over Equity and for many a long day used opposite sides of the street. But times have taken the edge off the quarrel and next month they're going to re-unite, which is as it should be. They're rehearsing every night at the Friars' Club a surprise act which they are going to present at the Silver Jubilee of the organization, at the Majestic theater on Nov. 24. George wrote the act and Sam does the criticism. During rehearsals praise agents and fanboys are barred—which also is as it should be.

WHAT A BEAUTY!

Ed. Pearson, formerly one of the librarians at the New York public library, has dredged from the archives an astonishing collection of literary monstrosities which he has put into a volume called "Queer Books" (Doubleday Doran).

A novelist's conception of female beauty in the early 90's is given in one of Pearson's quotations from "The Balsam Groves of the Grandfather Mountain," by Shepherd M. Dugger. Dugger thus describes Lidle Meeks, his heroine: "Her mouth was set with pearls, adorned with elastic rubies and tuned with minstrel lays, while her nose gracefully concealed its umbrage, and her eyes imparted a radiant glow to the azure of the sky. Jewels of plain gold were about her eyes and her tapering, strawberry hands, and a golden chain, attached to a time-keeper of the same material, sparkled on the elegantly rounded bosom that was destined to be pushed forward by sighs, as the reader will in due time observe. Modest, benevolent and mild in manners, she was probably the fairest of North Carolina's daughters."

PULL THE CURTAIN!

Which recalls the lyric submitted by a youthful aspirant in a newspaper song contest, in the course of which he wrote:

"There are sky lights in your eyes."

BULLETIN

Al Smith, who, in his biography, "Up to Now," admits that 35 years ago he donned makeup and skipped behind the footlights, may decide to do a "Talkie" based on his many-sided career. Winnie Sheehan, "head man" for Fox, is to get a "yes" or "no" from Al in the near future.

SHE COULD AFFORD IT!

A New York chorine who has a couple of Sugar Pappas with self-starting bankrolls is pausing at a newspaper on the fringe of The Lane. The caravansarie has the reputation, among those who know, of tossing together Manhattan cocktails like Father used to make. "Er Lydieship ordered a few cocktails suited to her suite the other day. Later she ordered more and subsequently more still. Finally the barkeep dispatched a bellhop aloft for some of the empty glasses so that other fanciers might be supplied. The boy found 35 cocktails clustered on a gold and oak table in the center of the living room. "Take 'em out," ordered the lady. "All I wanted was the cherries!"

Fabric and fur combinations in millinery are popular in Paris, and brims continue to be draped in a soft, flattering manner.

THE WAY of the WORLD

By GROVE PATTERSON

KEEPING UP AND AHEAD

A New York football coach—Chick Meehan—studies his plays and studies his men after each game by watching a picture news reel which unrolls all the happenings of the game before his watchful eyes. So many things, like radio, motion pictures, and even automobiles, start as novelties and matters of entertainment and grow quickly into the uses of business and education. One has to be rapidly adapted to keep up in this fast moving world.

LIGHT

A world without electric lights is almost unthinkable. Young folks of today have no remembrance of the candle, oil lamp, lantern days. Many have never seen a gas light, and yet we are celebrating now only the fiftieth anniversary of Edison's invention of the incandescent light. And what is a mere half century in the millions of years that have made up time and must continue to make up time?

OUTDOORS

Speaking of Edison, we should know that for 15 years Mrs. Edison has been a director of the Playground and Recreation Association of America. Mrs. Edison, in a message to the National Recreation Congress, tells folks that people who lack contact with outdoor life cannot be happy. And she properly reminds us that the best things in life—above all, the open spaces—are free.

AS TO PROHIBITION AGAIN

Prohibition continues to be the favorite topic where two or three are gathered together. Says Rt. Rev. Joseph Schrembs, Catholic bishop of Cleveland: "Saloons and drunkenness are intolerable, but prohibition is a mistake, and a sad one at that." The bishop says his church has "always recommended temperance and moderation in all aspects of life." He adds there is little hope of an immediate solution of the problem. He depends on the good sense of the people to do that in time.

PROBLEMS

As for prohibition, or any other national problem, we in the United States have a comparatively simple time of it compared to Europe, taken as a whole. We have about a hundred and a quarter million of people speaking one language. In Europe there are 461,000,000 speaking 121 languages.

ENFORCEMENT OF ANTI-TRUST LAWS PROMISED

By WILLIAM D. MITCHELL
United States Attorney General
(William DeWitt Mitchell was born at Winona, Minn., Sept. 9, 1874. He attended Yale two years and is a graduate of the University of Minnesota. Admitted to the bar in 1896, he began his law practice at St. Paul. He was appointed solicitor general by President Coolidge in 1925, and last spring was named attorney general by President Hoover. During the World war he was at Camp Taylor, Ky. He is a Democrat.)

Anti-trust laws of the United States will be enforced with vigor and determination. In the first place let me say that the department's program of law enforcement does not make any exception of the anti-trust laws. I have read nothing of the president's inaugural address or in any other of his statements which makes any distinction in the matter of anti-trust laws and any other acts of congress, and I have received no intimation from any source that the anti-trust laws were to be neglected or that violations of those laws were not to be prosecuted with vigor and determination. There have been many changes in economic conditions since these statutes were passed, and much discussion has arisen as to whether some modification of them is desired to meet modern business conditions.

The anti-trust laws are founded on the proposition that avenues of industrial opportunity must be kept open as far as possible to the initiative of the individual citizen. The alternative is bureaucratic regulation. That is not an attractive alternative. At any rate, until the political philosophy underlying the present anti-trust laws has been abandoned by congress it will be the duty of the attorney general to enforce these laws, and we shall undertake to do this without prejudice and with fairness, but with firmness.

The department of justice is not the place in which to amend the anti-trust laws or any other acts of congress. Changes in business conditions and methods of marketing, vertical trusts, chain stores, and other modern developments, have come thick and fast and have been somewhat confusing to those dealing with them. But I have no doubt that the principles contained in these statutes will be intelligently applied by the courts to the modern conditions.

Our material prosperity has been so overwhelming, our business institutions have been increasing in size and number with such leaps and bounds, that I fear there has been a disposition here and there to go too far and transgress the law. The machinery of some trade association seems to have been made use of for transactions

Eyes really tell more about a person than any other feature of the face. If the eyes are soft and young no matter if the nose and mouth are irregular, the face is attractive and charming. But just as youth is best expressed in the eyes, so age, when it takes its toll, leaves its first marks there.

Massage around the area of the eyes, if done in time, will prevent lines and crowfeet from forming, and even if done afterward, will do much to obliterate these indicators of time. The important thing to remember in eye massage is that the skin is most delicate. The greatest care must be exercised to prevent stretching, and only the gentlest patting form of massage can be used. In fact, so featherweight is its quality must this massage be, that it can hardly be called massage, and it should only be done with the fingertips.

First apply a good anti-wrinkle cream thinly over the eyelid and around the eye. Now gently finger-print it into the tissues with the lightest touch of the index and third fingers. Then work gently around the eyes with the third finger, always with a light touch and following the line of the muscles which run around and around the eye. If the eyelids droop, then a good corrective stroke is that of combing the eyebrows. By this I mean that you lift the eyebrow gently with the fingertips, alternating with the third and fourth fingers.

To obliterate crowfeet and fine lines, hold the outside of your eyes firmly with the index and third fingers, then with your other hand, gently pat in the opposite direction of the lines. This patting should be very much like a fine rain patten or light finger-tip stroking.

In conjunction with the massage, if you can keep a bit of the anti-wrinkle cream on around your eyes overnight, you will find that your results will be greater and that improvement will occur sooner.

Behind the Scenes In Washington

By CHARLES P. STEWART

WASHINGTON. At first thought one hardly appreciates the tragedy in the life story of Albert B. Fall for all it really means.

A poor, stricken old man!—ruined and in dishonor on the brink of the grave, after lording it among the mightiest in the land!—whom it is impossible not to pity, no matter what he may have done!

This comes readily enough to mind.

But there is worse. Fall takes his place among America's national villains. A historic second! The first culprit ever found guilty of a felony committed as a member of the cabinet itself! A unique crime! Children will read about it in their school books, after Fall has been dead for generations. The perpetration of an enormity comparable to Benedict Arnold's!

We think of Fall as sitting, in his wheel chair, in the shadow of conviction for bribe-taking, in his high office, because of his sale of vast stores of government oil to Edward L. Doheny, for a berygery $100,000 payment into his own pocket. Which is quite true, literally. It is more dramatic to think of him as sitting where he does because of a fight he had with a stranger who crossed his path in the most casual way—but a fateful meeting and a fateful quarrel they proved to be, for Albert B. Fall.

Carl McGee was an Iowa lawyer, who had come to New Mexico for the sake of his consumptive wife's health.

Without a practice in his new environment, and realizing that it would be slow work to build one up, he was looking about for something with an income in it to do. Fall owned a small newspaper, picked up in the course of some business transaction, which, being useless to him, he wanted to sell. Mutual acquaintances brought the pair together.

If Fall could have read the futhat came dangerously near price fixing.

With every disposition to refrain from any interference with legitimate business the anti-trust division of the department of justice proposed to deal vigorously with every violation of the anti-trust laws which comes to its attention.

ture! But he lacked the gift of second sight.

A bargain was made. McGee took over the paper.

Having meanwhile had time to look about him, he was not favorably impressed with the savor of New Mexico politics. Folk do say that the state was pretty arbitrarily run then. Thinly populated, and—largely by ignorant, easily managed "greasers,"—it lent itself naturally to boss rule, perhaps.

McGee thought so, at any rate. He opened a hot fire, with his little daily, on the dominant group of which Fall was the king pin.

It may be imagined that Fall did not like this—from the paper he, himself, had disposed of to McGee, too.

Now, Albert E. Fall, for all of his pitiable feebleness today, had a reputation at that period of being an exceedingly dangerous man to defy. He warned McGee and McGee did defy him. Thereupon there seems to be no question that Fall went after McGee's scalp.

The odds at that stage of the game were entirely in Fall's favor. His political power in New Mexico was almost absolute. McGee was poor and a stranger.

McGee, who comes to Washington occasionally, and came quite frequently when the oil inquiry was in progress, has told me that he had serious doubts for his life. Indeed, the campaign did finally lead to a homicide, though it was McGee who killed his man.

Well, McGee has chilled steel nerve. He hung on. The oil scandals "broke," but there was nothing in connection with them at first to imply anything more than a misjudging on Fall's part, if that, in granting the Teapot Dome lease to Harry Sinclair and Elk Hill to Doheny.

However, one day the news came to McGee that his enemy had shown signs of inexplicable opulence in recent weeks. He started to investigate.

Fall, while politically powerful, had notoriously been pinched for funds. Taxes on his ranch had fallen in arrears.

McGee discovered that they had been unexpectedly paid up, in full; that Fall was restocking his range, and making extensive improvements on his property. His suspicions were aroused.

Maybe, as a public spirited citizen, he would have sounded the alarm in any event; it certainly was not a moment for him to overlook a possibly good bet, hard pressed as he was just then in his life-and-death struggle with Fall. Hurrying to Washington, he placed his information in the senate oil inquiry committee's hands. The sequel?

Oh, everybody knows now all that is to be known concerning the "little black bag," the subsequently mutilated $100,000 note given by Fall to Doheny, the sale to Sinclair of an interest in the Fall ranch—the whole record of the transactions leading to the verdict in Justice Hitt's court in Washington a few days ago.

School children of the future will not read all these details but they will learn the nub of the tragedy in the story of Albert B. Fall.

Wash and dry the lamb roast, put in roaster with a little water, season with salt and pepper, put a small onion in each end of the roasting pan and put into hot oven. After first half hour of cooking lower fire and roast until tender, allowing half an hour for each pound of meat.

Today's Recipes

Escalloped Eggplant—Peel, dice and cook eggplant about fifteen minutes, then place in casserole and pour over a sauce made as follows: One tablespoon flour, one tablespoon butter, one-half cup milk, one cup strained tomato juice. Make a cream sauce and add tomato juice, pour over diced eggplant, cover with buttered crumbs and bake in hot oven fifteen minutes.

Brown Betty—Butter a baking dish, place a layer of fine bread crumbs, then a layer of peeled and sliced apples, seasoned with sugar, cinnamon and bits of butter. Alternate layers with alternate layers of breadcrumbs and apples, topping with the crumbs. Pour one-half cup water over it before putting in the oven. Bake one hour. Serve with hard sauce or cream.

NEW SANDWICH SPREAD

PEANUT PINE SANDWICHES
(Mrs. Mary Morton's Daily Tested Recipe)—Mix one-half cup peanut butter with one tablespoon walnuts, finely chopped, one tablespoon lettuce finely shredded, three tablespoons crushed pineapple drained from juice, honey to make consistency to spread.

Diet and Health

By LULU HUNT PETERS, M. D.

Author of "Diet and Health" and "Diet for Children"

"Dear Dr. Peters: I can't tell you how well I think of you and your method of dieting—so sane and so effective. Actually I sing your praises to everybody who is kind enough to notice that my size has diminished. When I began to Petersize, I weighed 230 (shamefully!) and now I am down to 210, or was it two weeks ago, the last time I weighed, I feel fine. Never had a bit of headache or constipation. (Wish I had done this six years ago.) Am going down over my whole body, and, believe it or not, my head size is smaller! My aim is 165—my height is five feet eight and one-half inches. MRS. F."

Twenty pounds as compared to the 50 and 100 pounds that are lost by so many of the followers, doesn't seem so much, does it? But in reality, it is a good deal. Think of the size of a 25-pound baby, and it will make you realize how much it is.

Yes your head size will go down; so will your foot size, or a least the foot width will go down.

Dear Mrs. S.—There is no home medication that I know of that offers any hope in breaking up the drinking habit. The only thing you can do is to see that your husband's home surroundings are happy and healthful. Be especially sure that his diet is right, for a craving for alcohol is a depraved appetite, and not infrequently depraved appetites are due to prolonged wrong diets, especially those that are deficient in vitamins.

Not long ago I ran a letter from a young man who signed himself "Ex-Tank," who said he found that tomato juice taken whenever he felt the longing for alcohol seemed to allay the desire. This may be due to the fact that tomatoes are high in vitamins and perhaps supplied a deficiency he had.

Of course, there are other factors besides deficient diets in alcoholism and drug addiction. There is certainly a weakness of the moral fibre which requires a firm guidance and perhaps supervision, as well as gentleness and tact. There may be a psychological factor involved—some psychic of childhood days, perhaps, that helps cause this weakening, so the guidance of an expert psychiatrist would be helpful.

The best thing I can suggest for you, Mrs. S., is to see if you can't get your husband into a modern institute devoted to the cure of alcoholism and drug addiction, for in these places they take all these factors into account and treat the patient from all angles.

If you don't know of any such institutions, ring up your county medical society.

Mrs. S.—See a physician about your breasts. That discharge is not normal. From your description, it may be a simple abscess which will clear up when it is drained. But you should see your physician! A woman should never allow any abnormal condition of the breasts to go on, because the breast is so frequently the seat of cancerous changes, especially after 40 years of age.

If you are interested in literature on cancer, write to the American Society for the Control of Cancer, 25 West 43rd street, New York City.

Living and Loving

By MRS. VIRGINIA LEE

"DEAR VIRGINIA LEE: I am a young married woman 24 years old and have no children. I have been married five years and have worked most of the time. I am helping by husband husk corn now. He never buys me any pretty clothes, as he doesn't approve of it, but he likes to dress up and go out and talk about how other girls are dressed. He doesn't stay home much of the time. I am letting my hair grow, and it is straight and want a permanent, and he wants me to keep it bobbed so he won't need to pay out the money.

"Would you give me advice what to do, as I am tired of living like this? Does my hubby love me or is he jealous of me? PETE."

He may love you, Pete, but he loves himself and the skeleton more. If you take care of the home and work outside besides, you are certainly entitled to pretty clothes and the permanent you crave.

Does he handle all the money? If not, take part of what you earn and get what you want. If he does, tell him you won't work unless you get some money for yourself.

A working wife certainly has a harder time than her husband, for she holds down two jobs, while he only has one, and money matters should be arranged so that both have some money of their own when house expenses, insurance and savings are deducted from the sum total of their salaries.

ANXIOUS: The boy friend belonged to the other girl, didn't he, in the first place? He merely went with you because he couldn't go with her when she was away? It was unfortunate that you grew to like him at that time.

If things had been the other way around, and you had been going with a boy who went away and was just friend; to another in the meantime, you can see that you would think it all right to go back to the first one when he came back, wouldn't you? If you can follow that somewhat involved sentence, I think you have a good start for being popular right now, and probably will be more so as you grow older and have more poise.

WEARY BROWN EYES: It is a bit mixed up, isn't it, dear? But the boy you love seem to have the sporting idea, it seems to me. He won't "cut in" on the boy friend, while you seem to welcome the idea of trying to win him away from your girl friend.

If you can't be happy going with your old boy friend, who loves you, break with him, but don't try to get the girl friend's boy away from her. Let things drift for awhile and see if they won't straighten out.

FAITHFUL writes to cheer "Just Waiting," who feared the girl he thought hit a flat tire because he went to church and Sunday school. She is 27 and in much the same position, for she finds that young men are not much interested in church and she is, and is a teacher in the Sunday school. She is sure Still Waiting will be richly rewarded for his 18 years' Sunday school attendance.

UNLUCKY KID: You can write the boy a letter if you wish, but there is no occasion, as you answered his card with another and he could write if he wanted to continue the correspondence. The girl asks the girl to wear his ring or pin, if he wants her to. You are pretty young to have dates, but if your parents know the boys, and approve, there is no harm in an occasional one. Be friendly and you will find you will make friends.

"DEAR VIRGINIA LEE: I am a girl 18 years old and keep house for my father and three brothers. I am starting to go out with other fellows, but my brothers don't approve and call me wild when I have not had a special date yet. My father doesn't seem to care much.

I have a girl friend who is quite peppy but is decent, and they call me wild on account of her. Please advise me. Am I too young to go with fellows? I always refuse a bum when he asks me to go with him. Shall I listen to my brothers? One is younger and one older than me. I always have their meals on time and don't see why they should have so much to say.

"LONESOME JAKE." Brothers are like that, my dear. They always think they should run sister's affairs. I shouldn't pay much attention to them unless they advise you against going with a certain fellow whom they know isn't all right. You are old enough to have boy friends, and as long as you are discreet there is no reason why you shouldn't have a good time with the rest of the young people.

BROKEN HEARTED BLONDE: Why not write the boy friend a little note and tell him that if you hurt his feelings through your kidding you are sorry and will try not to do it again. If he doesn't respond to that you will have to let him go, as there is no use running after him, wringing your hands and moaning.

He should have known you better in the first place, than to think you would deliberately hurt his feelings, and in the second place, he hurt you by what he said, so he, too, should apologize.

Worth's new collection is to be built around the bathing suit motif, he declares. Form moulding lines are to be used, and the natural waistline, as no one wears a sports belt around the hips.

Peter's Adventures

By MRS. FLORENCE SMITH VINCENT

SURPRISE ATTACK

The brook was way down at the other end of the garden, and Peter, small as he had shrunk, could take only teeny weeny strides, and it took him some time to cover the distance from rosebush to water. Once there he decided to stay in the cool of the fern for a while, and sat down on a flat stone on the brook's bank. Before long Peter decided he needed a back to his seat and decided to move the flat stone to a position where he could lean comfortably back against a fern stem. But the stone stuck to the moist earth, and the boy tugged before he could stir it. With one last effort that took all of his strength, Peter lifted the stone but dropped it in a hurry. There in the damp spot where the stone had been was a group of queer little creatures that seemed to be—yes, they were—shooting straight at him. Guns went off—bang, bang, bang!

On the ground that he intends to enter the life insurance business at Columbus, C. W. Bolen, better known perhaps as "Shifty" Bolen, has resigned as coach of football teams at Wilmington College and it has been accepted by B. O. Skinner, college president. Bolen's successor will probably not be appointed until next summer as the resignation does not become effective until the close of the present gridiron season.

While coaching football at Wilmington, Bolen put the school on the athletic map. He taught baseball, basketball and track as well as football. Graduating from Ohio State, where he was a football star, Bolen came to Wilmington in 1923.

An interesting announcement for local fans is that Joe Selwyn, Dayton light-heavyweight contender, now making his headquarters at Xenia, has been matched for a return bout with Pedlar Palmer, the "Black Dempsey," at Memorial Hall, Dayton, Wednesday night, November 13. They will box twelve rounds to a decision at a weight of 174 pounds.

In their last meeting at Dayton Sekyra came in at catch weights, which gave him an advantage of some ten or twelve pounds over Palmer, but at 174 pounds the weight matter will be even as Palmer will weigh about 172 in his best fighting form. The winner will probably get a crack at Maxie Rosenbloom, now being recognized as the light-heavy champ, in a bout during December at Dayton. Rosenbloom has accepted a guarantee of $4,000 for a date at Dayton against the winner.

The North Dayton Club, promoters had quite a time making this match as Joe and his manager did not relish a return bout with the vicious-seeming Palmer, especially at 174 pounds. But when Rosenbloom was signed to box the winner of a Sekyra-Palmer fight for the title, Charlie Cook came to terms in a hurry as Joe is anxious to get back into the light-heavy running again. To do so he must beat Rosenbloom who decided in a bout at Madison Square Garden recently.

Joe says he will knock out the negro fighter at any weight and then reverse things with Rosenbloom, but Palmer declares he will use the baby to try out wallop with the New York Hebrew when he comes to Dayton for a title fight.

The U. of Dayton Flyers will meet a sturdy opponent when they clash with the All-Marine eleven at Dayton November 16. The Marines, whose showing had been unimpressive this season, staged a brilliant comeback when they won service football laurels and the President's Cup from the Coast Guard in a game played at Washington last Saturday.

In former years Dayton and the Marines have been well matched and have always been a great drawing card. Dayton won the first contest in 1926, 7 to 2, but the Leathernecks won the last two engagements, 6 to 0 and 7 to 0. The game between the Musketeers and Flyers Saturday may point to the probable outcome of the Marine-Dayton clash the following week-end.

INTIOCH FENCERS MATCH WITTENBERG

Wittenberg College fencers will meet the Antioch College fencemen in the first intercollegiate match of the season at Yellow Springs Friday, November 8, it is announced. Wittenberg has agreed to meet Ohio State fencers at Columbus December 6.

The fencemen of the Wittenberg team are: W. Lyman Osborn, Jack Lindsay and William Boger. Joe Rilling is the Lutheran team's sabre wielder and Van S. Under, Springfield, captain of the team, is the epee performer. Wittenberg's team will be completely unformed for its battles.

SEASON FRIDAY IN WILMINGTON GAME

Face to face with the last opportunity to win a football game this season, Cedarville College's football squad will exert every effort to register a victory over Wilmington College in a return game on the Cedarville gridiron Friday afternoon.

Marking the final game of the season for the "Yellowjackets," the contest will also provide the Borstmen with another chance to record a long-awaited victory over the Quakers and the odds are believed to be in Cedarville's favor.

Encouraged by the fact Wilmington was held to a scoreless tie last October 5, Cedarville gridgers are confident that Wilmington's eleven years of athletic supremacy will be brought to an end.

The Wilmington camp is shrouded in gloom this week because of the probability that Paul "Pop" Boxwell, stalwart Xenia fullback, may not be able to play against Cedarville because of a bad leg bruise, characterized by the team's physician as the worst he has ever treated.

Followers of the Borstmen recall that the annual Wilmington-Cedarville football tilt played at Cedarville last fall was won by the Quakers only after the hardest kind of a struggle. The score was tied 20 to 20 at the end of the third quarter and it was only through the medium of a fourth period rally that Wilmington won 32 to 20. In a preceding game with Cedarville, the score was 40 to 6 in Wilmington's favor.

The game will also be the swan song for Coach "Shifty" Bolen as athletic mentor of Wilmington. Bolen is now guiding a Wilmington football team against a Cedarville eleven is concerned since his resignation takes effect at the close of the present grid season. The Quakers are therefore expected to put forth their best efforts for the retiring coach.

Friday's tilt is scheduled to start at 2:30.

START VOLLEY BALL TOURNAMENT AMONG HIGH SCHOOL TEAMS

A volleyball tournament in which twelve junior high and seven senior high teams are competing, was begun at Xenia Central High School Thursday and the first round of play in both divisions was completed Thursday and Friday.

True to form is an elimination affair and names of well known Ohio colleges and universities have been chosen by the nineteen contending teams. Names of the larger schools have been given to the senior high teams.

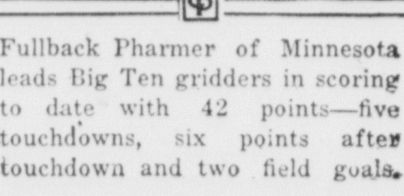

It is planned to wind up the tournament by Thanksgiving Day in order that the winners of junior high and senior high may meet for the school championship. The final game will probably be played during an activity period when the entire student body and the public will have an opportunity to witness the tilt.

The tournament is in charge of Glen Paterson, assistant coach. The second round will be played next week.

Results of games played in the first round in junior high follow: Capital beat Otterbein, 17 to 13; Marietta beat Defiance, 17 to 11; University of Dayton defeated Mt. Union, 14 to 12; Wooster licked Kenyon 17 to 9; Wilmington bested Ashtabud, 17 to 13; Ohio Northern beat Hiram, 17 to 9.

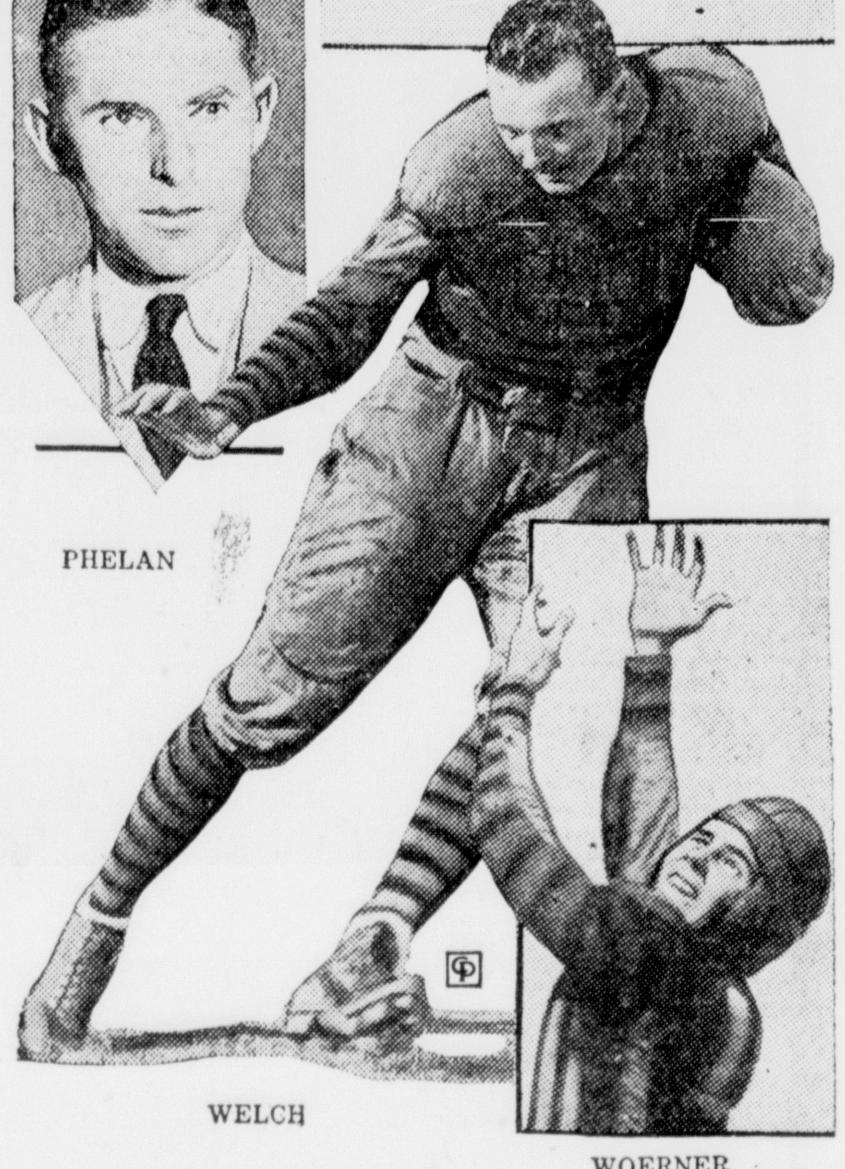

In the senior high, Cincinnati drew a first round bye Friday morning, while Denison eliminated Ohio Wesleyan, 19 to 14; Ohio University put Wittenberg out of the running, 20 to 14, and Miami rolled up a score of 44 to 25 on Muskingum.

Touchdown Maker

Fullback Pharrner of Minnesota leads Big Ten gridgers in scoring to date with 42 points—five touchdowns, six points after touchdowns and two field goals.

FOOTBALL MAKERS BIG TEN THREAT

Purdue University, long regarded as one of the doormats of the Western conference, appears now as the dark horse of the race for Big Ten football supremacy. Purdue's surprise conquest of Michigan has sent the Indiana school's grid stock sky high. Coach Jim Pheelan and two of his stars, Pest Welch, back, and Bill Woerner, end, shown above.

NORTHWESTERN HAS DEFEATED OHIO STATE TEAM ONLY ONCE

COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 7.—Back in 1916, Northwestern sent what was regarded as a strong football eleven to Columbus to mix with an Ohio State team.

Paddy Driscoll—the old-timers will remember him—led the Wildcats' invasion then.

The Buckeyes were regarded as the "under-dogs." Just about that time, Chic Harley made his debut in the gridiron world, and on the memorable Saturday afternoon, the greatest player who ever wore a "scarlet and gray" Jersey, led his team-mates through to a 23 to 3 victory over the Evanston squad.

That is just a bit of history, and out of the past comes another statement that only once since the athletic relations between the two Big Ten universities started, has Northwestern triumphed over Ohio State.

Saturday may mark the second milestone of Northwestern's victories.

But, if Coach Sam Willaman has anything to say about the results, the invaders won't. He is at least hopeful. So are his warriors.

The old backfield combination of Horn, Holman, Holcomb and McConnell will be in the starting lineup. None of those gridgers has a sufficient scoring punch to be an outstanding threat. But if the Ohio State can hold the Wildcats, the more or less successful aerial attack of the Bucks should stand the team in good stead.

Northwestern pulled a victory from Illinois last Saturday and it assuredly has the edge because of that feat. But when the Evanston crowd arrives here tomorrow, it may be suffering from what is known as "over-confidence."

Ohio State was drubbed at the hands of the Pitt Panthers last Saturday and sometimes an old-fashioned licking like that does a team good.

All of those little things must be figured upon.

The varsity of Ohio was sent through a stiff scrimmage yesterday, and it showed that there was still plenty of that noted Buckeye fighting spirit in it.

Another scrimmage is on tap for this afternoon. Only light practice is expected tomorrow, and Saturday—who knows?

BUCKLEY STARTS TERM IN ATLANTA

ATLANTA, Nov. 7.—Bert B. Buckley, former treasurer of Ohio, entered Atlanta Federal Prison today shortly after his arrival from the North to start serving a one and one-half year sentence for conspiracy and attempted bribery.

Arriving on the anniversary of his second election a year ago, the stately, graying politician appeared despondent and hunched a frame-up for his plight. "I am the pawn of the liquor traffic," he said.

UBERLIN ELECTS CENTER CAPTAIN

UBERLIN, O., Nov. 7.—Vic Gowdy, star center of the Oberlin College eleven, today has the honor of piloting his teammates for the remainder of the football season.

Previously, it had been the custom for Coach Macgregor to appoint a temporary captain for each game. However, following a practice session yesterday, the team held an election and decreed otherwise, bestowing the honor of permanent captain for this year upon Gowdy.

LIKE A CRYSTALLIZED RAY OF LIGHT

Several years ago, a deep red diamond was found. It remains unique in all the world, though diamonds of blue, green, yellow and even brown tints are reasonably common. The perfect diamond, however, holds in its facets all the hues of the rainbow. Like a ray of light, it is colorless, yet a myriad of colors. We are proud to display among our gems, many perfect diamonds, some unmounted, some in exclusive mountings.

carried Greene County by an official plurality of 503 votes, the vote being: yes, 3,402; no, 2,899.
Contrary to early indications, the proposed continuance of the present two-year term was defeated by a margin of 349 votes. The official vote was: yes, 3,249; no, 3,598.
Dr. F. M. Chambliss, county coroner, one of the candidates elected to City Commission, led the ticket with 1,212 votes, ten more than the unofficial count showed. Harry M. Fisher, who ran second, received 1,078 votes, picking up five by the official tabulation, while H. L. Binder, elected to the third commission vacancy, obtained 1,068 votes, an increase of nine over his unofficial total. The official vote registered on behalf of the remaining three commission candidates follows: Karl R. Babb, 1,008; David Cherry, 901, and J. A. Yoder, 508.

Following is the semi-official vote for the six candidates for Xenia Twp. board of education: F. A. Wolf, 282; Edna C. Bull, 256; D. T. Harner, 243; Frank Weaver, 225; H. Try Hagler, 217; J. B. Harner, 165.
Unopposed candidates for the Xenia city and Greene County school boards and Xenia Twp. trustees received substantial complimentary votes.
Dr. Chambliss, who is serving his second two-year term as coroner of Greene County and has one more year to serve in that capacity, announced Thursday that he will resign the position by January 1 in order to qualify as a city commissioner, the city charter prohibiting a candidate from holding two elective offices at the same time.

A CLEAR COMPLEXION
Ruddy cheeks—sparkling eyes—most women can have. Dr. F. M. Edwards for 20 years treated scores of women for liver and bowel ailments. During these years he gave his patients a substitute for calomel made of a few well-known vegetable ingredients, naming them Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets. Know them by their olive color.
These tablets are wonder-workers on the liver and bowels, causing a normal action, carrying off the waste and poisonous matter in one's system.
If you have a pale face, sallow look, dull eyes, pimples, coated tongue, headaches, a listless, no-good feeling, all out of sorts, inactive bowels, take one of Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets nightly for a time and note the pleasing results.
Thousands of women and men take Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets—now and then to keep fit. 15c, 30c and 60c.

Cleveland shows 55% increase in EIGHTS
Facts just obtained from 28 representative American cities indicate conclusively that the motoring public prefers the Eight to all other engine types. Take Cleveland as an example: for the first eight months of 1929, new cars with list prices above $1000 showed a 55 per cent increase in Eights and a 16 per cent decrease in Sixes!

At the famous Paris Salon this fall, 44 makes of eight cylinder cars were exhibited, compared with 27 last year.
Studebaker, world's largest producer of Eights, two years ago initiated this era of the inexpensive Eight with the champion Studebaker President which traveled 30,000 miles in 26,326 consecutive minutes.
And today, at customary six-cylinder prices, you can choose from three great lines of Studebaker Eights—holders of eleven world records for speed and endurance and more American stock car records than all other makes combined.
Get a smart, new, thrifty Studebaker Eight—backed by 77 years of manufacturing integrity—and your car will be worth more in the trade-in markets of the future.

Exit the Wooden Nutmeg

It was only a generation or two ago that the purchase of groceries and dry goods was conducted in an atmosphere of distrust. Wooden nutmegs and sanded sugar were perhaps extreme cases of the prevalent merchandising methods, but any well-trained housewife felt it her duty to subject the things she bought to a critical inspection. She sniffed and nibbled at foodstuffs; tapped silverware to see if it rang true; examined woollens and silks with suspicion. With so many fraudulent articles on the market one could never be sure.

Why is it that women--and men-- do their buying today with a calm confidence?

What has become of the shams?

The simple fact is that advertising has made it difficult for dishonest goods to live. People buy advertised products and know that they will be as represented. Their makers and distributors have put themselves on record.

When you use the advertising columns as a buying directory, and ask for advertised goods by name, you are assured of your money's worth.

The advertisements are your guide to sound values.

Parachute Drummer Who Had Never Jumped Is Obligated To Demonstrate

MAGRUDER MAKING A DEMONSTRATION FLIGHT

SAN DIEGO, Cal., Nov. 5.—Edwin Magruder, the newest-fashioned salesman, believes in the oldest-fashioned salesmanship. He believes in testing his own samples. Recently Magruder completed a 15,000-mile air tour of the United States in his own plane, and sold 1,000 parachutes. He had never jumped with one of the devices prior to starting the tour. Twice, however, prospective customers wanted to see him take his own medicine.

Jumps to Sell
At the Hicksville, N. Y., Aviation Country Club he jumped for the sole purpose of selling a "chute." Needless to say, he sold it.

At Cincinnati he made his second jump to convince prospective customers that the thing really worked.

"Parachutes are no longer mediums for thrilling the public," says Magruder. "They now are practical, life-saving devices."

To prove this point, Magruder's official jumper, Freddie Cole, leaped from Magruder's plane fifty times in thirty states. They also threw overboard a parachute 100 times with lead weights attached. This demonstrated their safety with heavy loads.

Chute Consciousness
Magruder found a national parachute consciousness on the part of pilots. "The old idea that a pilot should stay with his ship has dis-

GAMBLING FIASCO PROBED BY POLICE; CRAP GAME COSTLY

An affidavit charging him with permitting gambling at his home may be filed against William Gales, colored, as a result of an alleged dice game at the Gales home which is said to have cost Earl Glass, colored, $90, sent to him by his father in Georgia.

With the $90 as capital, Glass sat in on a crap game with Gales and T. Watson, also colored, at the Gales home, he complained to police. Misfortune, however, overtook Glass and the ninety iron men soon reposed in the trousers pocket of Watson.

Angered at being divorced from his "roll" Glass complained so strenuously that Watson, it is said, turned his winnings over to Gales for safe keeping. Gales took the money to the home of his mother but on the following day is said to have gotten the money and spent $50 of it to outfit his children with clothes and shoes.

Glass lodged a complaint with police and all three men were brought to Police Headquarters. Gales was locked up, pending further investigation Wednesday, while Glass and Watson are at liberty on their own recognizance, bawling the fact they are each $90 poorer.

ACCOUNTS; OTHERS ALLOWED TEN DAYS

Dr. Frank M. Chambliss, at present coroner of Greene County, elected to one of the three vacancies that will exist on City Commission at the close of this year, was the first candidate for public office in Greene County to file his campaign expense account with the board of elections Wednesday. Dr. Chambliss expended $41.50 on advertising, his statement revealed.

Four other candidates have also filed their required statements with the election board. Adam E. Longstreth spent $5 on advertising in his successful campaign for election as Bath Twp. Justice of the peace but expended nothing on his campaign for a seat in the Fairfield village council.

No campaign disbursements were listed in the accounts of three other candidates who filed. They were: Thomas J. Smith, candidate for clerk of Fairfield village; William Lang, candidate for the Fairfield village council, and Homer L. Morzan, candidate for the Bath Twp. school board.

Announcement is being made by R. E. Dunkle, clerk of the election board, that all candidates for municipal, township or school offices in Greene County at Tuesday's election, regardless of whether they were elected or defeated, are required by law to file expense statements with the board within ten days after the election. These accounts must contain itemized list of campaign receipts and expenditures.

VOTES COST 48 CENTS EACH

VOTES cast in Greene County at Tuesday's municipal election cost forty-eight cents apiece, it is estimated by R. E. Dunkle, clerk of the board of elections.

Election board officials estimate that nearly 7,500 votes were cast. The vote on the state tax amendment totalled only 6,301 while 6,847 votes were cast for or against the county road levy. A survey indicated, however, that an average of twenty to twenty-five electors in each of the forty-eight precincts failed to vote one way or the other on the tax amendment.

It is believed that voters either failed to understand the amendment or were indifferent as to whether it carried or was defeated.

Cost of the election was about $3,600. The expense included $1,700 for judges and clerks for the forty-eight precincts, $700 for printing ballots, $600 for poll books, $300 for service and rent and about $300 miscellaneous.

URGES LAYBOURNE FOR CENSUS POST

Congressman Charles Brand, Urbana, has recommended the appointment of Stanley E. Laybourne, Clark County representative in the Ohio general assembly, as census supervisor for the Seventh Congressional District, which includes Greene County. Laybourne would succeed U. S. Commissioner Thomas F. Hudson, whose death occurred several days ago.

LAW FOR STAGE

MARCUS MCCALLISTER

No triangle is completed without three corners, in spite of what they may tell you, and so Councilor Marcus McCallister drops his copy of Gladstone for the nonce to be one of those very important corners in "Tea for Three," which will be the Theater Guild's first offering of the season at City Hall Theater Friday evening.

A lot of heroics are demanded of the barrister in this important role, and the audience will make up the jury that will decide whether he is a good actor as just part of the bric-a-brac. McCallister, Miss Margaret Little and Fred Flynn make up the merry mimics who interpret this fascinating comedy-drama of modern metropolitan life and they do it, Mrs. Esther Schick, Guild director, is coaching the performers with the promise of a first-class production for the season's opening performance.

YELLOW SPRINGS TO SOLICIT $1,600 FOR COMMUNITY CHEST

Quota for the second annual Community Chest drive which will be conducted in Yellow Springs, beginning Monday, November 11, has been fixed at $1,600 an increase over the 1929 goal, it is announced.

Eight social organizations expecting to derive support from the village chest fund next year, have submitted their 1930 budgets. The aggregate of the budgets together with an emergency fund maintenance fund.

The campaign for funds is expected to last at least a week.

Carl Drake, manager of the Yellow Springs Lumber Co., has been appointed chairman of the solicitation committee and the corps of workers who will canvass the village under his direction hope to see as many prospects as possible on Armistice Day, the opening day of the drive.

Organizations which submitted their 1930 budgets include: Boy Scouts of America, Parent-Teacher Association, Social Service League, Colored Welfare League, American Red Cross, Greene Co. Health League, Colored Nursery school and the Yellow Springs Library Association.

"Give Once" has been adopted as the campaign slogan. This motto is said to appeal to the average citizen and the soliciting committee feels confident that the quota will be over-subscribed.

Yellow Springs held its first chest drive last year and it was crowned with success.

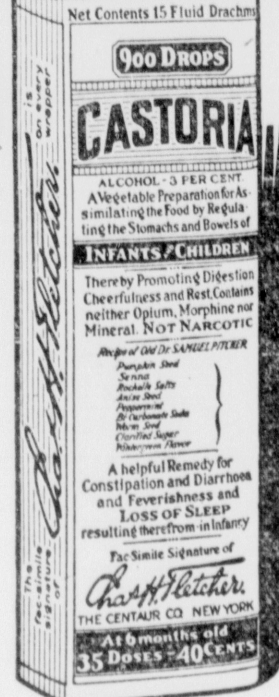

NAMED ON COUNCIL

Dr. LeRoy N. Bundy, brother of Superintendent R. C. Bundy, of the Combined Normal and Industrial Department of Wilberforce University, was elected councilman representing the fourth ward 18 Cleveland at Tuesday's election.

Children Cry for it

Children hate to take medicine as a rule, but every child loves the taste of Castoria. And this pure vegetable preparation is just as good as it tastes; just as bland and harmless as the recipe reads. (The wrapper tells you just what Castoria contains.)

When Baby's cry warns of colic, a few drops of Castoria has him soothed, asleep again in a jiffy. Nothing is more valuable in diarrhea. When coated tongue or had breath tell of constipation, invoke its gentle aid to cleanse and regulate a child's bowels. In colds or children's diseases, use it to keep the system from clogging. Your doctor will tell you Castoria deserves a place in the family medicine cabinet until your child is grown. He knows it is safe for the tiniest baby; effective for a boy in his teens. With this special children's remedy handy, you need never risk giving a boy or girl medicine meant for grown-ups.

Castoria is sold in every drug store; the genuine always bears Chas. H. Fletcher's signature.

Yellow Springs

The W. C. T. U. will hold a special service at the Methodist Church Sunday evening, Mrs. Lem Gilreath of Etowah, Tenn., national evangelist will be the speaker in the evening. A cordial invitation is extended to all.

Dr. Joseph Bartlett of Antioch College filled the pulpit in the Presbyterian Church, Sunday morning in the absence of Rev. C. H. White who is in New Richmond filling an engagement during the Ohio Presbyterian Fellowship week.

The carnival under the management of the ladies of the library was held on Dayton St., Thursday evening. Owing to the rain the crowd was not so large as last year. The parade started at 8 o'clock with the children in the march. The prizes were awarded soon after. The adults were in line and marched to the strain of music furnished by the Antioch band. Supper was served from 5 to 7:30 in the Hackett store room. The ladies will realize about one hundred and fifty dollars from the carnival which will be used toward the running expenses of the library.

The ladies of St. Paul's Church held a card party in the basement of their church Wednesday afternoon.

Mrs. Nora Henry of Devon, Pa. here for a short time in the interest of her mother's (Mrs. Will Forbes) sale and closing up the farm business.

Mrs. George Drake is visiting her daughter Mrs. Wilbur Corry in Cleveland.

Miss Edna Huston and some friends from Springfield left by motor Wednesday for California where she will spend the winter.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Reel of Cincinnati spent the week end with Mrs. Reel's parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. M. Stewart.

Eugene Littleton, aged 24, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Littleton, died Saturday at 6:15 a. m. The funeral services were held Monday afternoon from the Presbyterian Church of which he was a member. The remains were laid to rest in the Glen Forest Cemetery.

Mrs. S. F. Weston who went to Paris to attend the wedding of her son Burns, returned home Saturday.

Mrs. Lynn Northup has been appointed chairman of the home hygiene department of Clark County Chapter, American Red Cross. Mrs. Northup is a former resident of this city but is now residing in New Moorefield where her husband is principal of the high school.

Miss Helen Anderson of McRea, Georgia, is visiting her mother, Mrs. Clarence Anderson.

Mr. and Mrs. Caud Smith of Charleston, W. Va., attended the funeral of their cousin Eugene Littleton, Monday.

Miss Grace Brummage of West Virginia, was the guest of Mrs. Frank Hazen, Sunday.

The district meeting of the Home Missionary Society of the Methodist Church will hold an all day meeting in the church Thursday Mrs. Schmiediker will be the speaker.

WAGNER MAY LOCATE IN NEW STORE ROOM

The south half of a vacant room in the Clara Allen Bldg. at 6 S. Detroit St., which is being remodeled and divided into two separate store rooms, may be occupied by the L. A. Wagner jewelry store, it was learned Wednesday.

The jeweler faces the necessity of vacating his present room in an adjoining building also owned by Clara Allen, which is to be altered and occupied by the S. S. Kresge Co., operating a national chain of 5 and 10 cent stores. The north half of the partitioned room will be occupied by the Coates barber shop, which will also be moved from its present location at 4 S. Detroit St.

the JOY of LIVING

is founded on Good Health

Your joy may depend upon rich, red-blood-cells

A HEALTHY body is vigorous, strong and sound. It is man and woman's greatest asset. It demands that the red-blood-cells shall not be decreased in number.

The red-blood-cells are its workers—5,000,000 to the cubic millimeter. It is dangerous to let the blood count remain below normal.

With an increase in the red-blood-cells, you will be on the right road to Health. This is Nature's way to body power and to clear skin.

You owe it to yourself and family to give S.S.S. a trial. It promotes healthy body building. It helps Nature build rich, red blood. For more than 100 years S.S.S. has been helping people regain and retain their strength and charm. It is made from strictly fresh vegetable drugs and is easy to assimilate. Pleasant to take. Thousands of users have testified to its benefits in unsolicited letters of gratitude.

S.S.S.

You will be delighted with S.S.S. blood-building and tonic effects. Take at mealtime. At all drug stores in two sizes. Ask for the larger size. It is more economical.

Fly O'er Sea Again

COTTON STOCKINGS

ALMA SIOUX SCARBERRY Author of THE FLAT TIRE Copyright, 1929, by Central Press Association, Inc.

READ THIS FIRST:

Rosalie March, seventeen, after the death of her mother, secures a position at the hosiery counter in a Philadelphia store through the kindness of Kenessa Du Barry, an actress. She is adored by her landlady, Mother Murphy, and a little Tim O'Hara, corner newsboy. Her first day at the store she wears a pair of cotton stockings because she finds a "run" in her old pair of silk ones. After the girls at the store make fun of her, Rosalie, in desperation, takes a pair of silk stockings from the stock, promising herself to make good for them pay day. In her confusion, leaving the store, she drops the hose, and is observed by Alberto Martino, the store detective, who does not detain her, but says he will see her later.

Roy Clarke Andrews, nephew of the store owner, notices Rosalie and chats with her daily. Rosalie has a boy friend, Neil McKinley, back home, but they quarreled when she left for the city.

Neil calls Rosalie unexpectedly one evening. She dines, and Neil drinks too much. Speeding down the street, they are stopped by a motor policeman, who arrests them. Neil is detained, but Rosalie is sent home. Martino, threatening arrest for taking the stockings, makes Rosalie promise to hide a suitcase in her room.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XVI

By morning Rosalie was so sorry for Neil that she would have given almost anything in the world to find out what had become of him. How long would they keep him in that nasty jail? She thought of him as a convict and was ashamed to the core of her heart that he would do such a foolish thing. It was his mother's fault, she told herself. He hadn't been set the right example in his home. Mrs. McKinley never did go to church like other people in the town did.

Rosalie didn't believe she would ever hear from him again. And when she thought of it her heart grew heavier. Perhaps she might help him. Maybe he would be a better boy if she saw him often.

The suitcase was her first thought when she got up. It lay under the bed like an evil monster. There MUST be something wrong about it or the man wouldn't have threatened her so if she didn't "keep her trap shut." Maybe Martino did mean to harm her after all.

In the store she felt pale and listless. Ann noticed her apathy. "You look like last year's nest, Angel Face. Out late last night?" "Not very," Rosalie turned and fussed with some stockings that had been paved over by customers. "I have a little headache."

"I mostly always use bromo seltzer for the morning after," Ann kidded good naturedly.

But Rosalie didn't know what she meant, and didn't feel like asking. She tried to catch Martino's eye all day so that she might beg him to tell her what was in the heavy suitcase. But he steered clear of her counter.

It was early in the afternoon that Roy came to her. He always watched his chance when Ann went for one of her numerous powder and rouge renewing expeditions.

"Hello, little lady—and you're looking a little down in the rosy lips today."

"I have the blues." She smiled, for she was always glad to see him. "Do you ever get that way?" "Oh I'm a regular broken hearted butterfly. I have to go out every night and smile and dance and try to forget. It's my terrible past that haunts me."

She dimpled in the way he always hoped she would. "Do you want to bury your sorrows?" he grinned at her then. "Have you a terrible past?"

She thought of the night before and laughed a little nervously. "I'm afraid I'm beginning to have one. The big city is all so new and strange to me."

"Fine!" Roy approved. "Nothing like burying your sorrows when they are young and tender. Suppose we bury them together. How about driving out some place in the country and having dinner?"

Rosalie's heart nearly stopped beating. He was asking her to dinner! When she hesitated he stood smiling and waiting for her answer. After the experience of the night before, and Mike Flaherty's warning, she was almost afraid to go.

But there was something about Roy Andrews that seemed somehow different. Of course, Ann had told her he was a "fast worker" and a woman chaser. But he had smiling eyes and was amusing—and surely anyone who would smile like that and be so funny couldn't be very dangerous.

"I'd rather you'd meet me a

couple of blocks away from the store, he told her when she had accepted his invitation. "Not because I am ashamed of you, little lady. I'm proud to be seen with you. But I don't want the other girls in the store to talk about you or kid you. They love to dish a little dirt."

It was sweet of him, Rosalie thought. It was because he respected her. She had heard enough gossip to know that he was right. Rosalie called Mother Murphy that she would not be home for dinner so that she would not go to the bother of setting her little private table. Mother told her to have a good time and be careful.

Roy made entering the restaurant and getting settled at a table so easy for her that she hardly felt the least little qualm. Her cheeks were pink and her hair blown in little wavy wisps around her face from the drive.

"You are lovely," He leaned toward her, smiling, when they sat down. "You are youth personified. You do my old heart good."

She laughed it off—felt suddenly gay and without a worry. He picked up the menu.

"But, we came out to drown a lot of sorrows. I always find mine stay down better under the shore dinner. There's so much of it."

He ordered for her, and there was really nothing to it. How different he was from Neil. But, she excused Neil in her heart, he was much younger and hadn't lived in a big city all his life.

Roy asked her if she wanted to dance, and she hardly knew what to say. Finally she decided to be frank.

"I only danced once in my life. But, I'll try."

It was six thirty, and the "Old Windmill" was almost deserted. Rosalie felt it would not be so difficult with so few to watch her. The music was so fascinating that she forgot all about ever having been told that dancing was wicked.

Roy danced beautifully, and Rosalie did, too. It was heavenly. She felt very safe and very happy in his arms. He was so tall and strong and gay. Like a big brother.

Back at the table he ordered cracked ice and offered her a high ball. She looked a little sorry. Did everybody drink? Well, she would not scold him—unless he drank too much. He did not urge her to drink—or seem to doubt her when she said she had never taken a high ball.

"No harm in that," he had grinned. "Maybe that's how you keep the dimples and the rosebud lips."

He had two highballs and did most of the talking. Of interesting things and of places he had been. She kept her ears and eyes wide open, listening and watching how the people around her did this and that, so that she would know just how to act if he ever took her out again.

On the way back he drew up to the side of the road and they looked together at the big round moon. When he pulled her to him she drew back with a faint little "please."

He smiled and started the car at once.

"I've never fought for a girl's kisses yet, little lady. And, I'm not going to start now. You just let me know when you want to be kissed."

She laughed a little foolishly. And she was just a bit sorry. What would it be like to be kissed by so charming and wonderful a man. But, after all, Neil was her boy friend. If he ever came back sorry and ashamed. And it wouldn't be fair to him.

He was horrified when he saw the section she lived in, but decided to wait until he knew her a little better to tell her she should move.

At the door he kissed her hand gallantly. And she felt very grown up and very important—and almost happy.

FORMER XENIAN ON LEGION COMMITTEE TO PUBLISH PAPER

E. S. Myers, Middletown, former Xenian, is a member of a committee of five Ohio Legionnaires which has charge of the launching of an official American Legion newspaper by the department of Ohio.

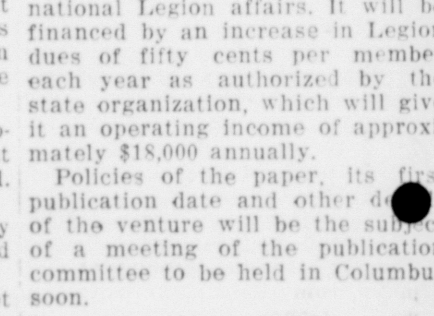

The proposed paper will be the first ever issued by the Ohio Legion, and will be distributed twice a month to the 36,000 members of the organization in Ohio, according to present plans.

Mr. Myers is now secretary and general manager of The Middletown Journal and the Middletown News-Signal at Middletown, Ohio, and is a member of the Legion post in that city. Dudley A. White, state Legion commander and manager of the Norwalk Reflector-Herald, is chairman of the committee and other members are: Carl E. (Pete) Moore, formerly of the Cleveland Plain Dealer; Charles Corbin, managing editor of the Toledo Blade; and H. Mowrey, managing editor of The Ohio State Journal, Columbus.

The proposed paper will be in newspaper form, consisting of four pages of seven columns each, and will carry news of local, state and national Legion affairs. It will be financed by an increase in Legion dues of fifty cents per member each year as authorized by the state organization, which will give it an operating income of approximately $18,000 annually.

Policies of the paper, its first publication date and other details of the venture will be the subject of a meeting of the publication committee to be held in Columbus soon.

A Versatile Authoress

Dare (pronounced Dah-ray) titled European elegant, author of "Lovely Ladies," who has made an extraordinary success in America as a writer within the short space of four years. Where average newspaper writer succeeds in establishing one feature only after a lifetime of labor, this remarkable woman writes and illustrates a round dozen of syndicated articles that appear in the leading newspapers of the United States and Canada. She maintains office in California, New York, and Paris studio, in which she resides. The scope of her articles encompasses fashions, beauty, cooking and a variety of children's features.

The Theater

It is reported that they are singing the blues along Hollywood Boulevard now because the recent Wall St. gymnastics took a lot of the fair movie folk over the coals.

Stars and directors, just like other human beings, have a bit of the family plate on the big and little boards. When the wind began to blow in Wall St. it looked as if some of them would have to retrench and make out, somehow, with only three Rolls-Royces and two Hispano-Suizas.

But with big salaries clicking on

One guess as to who this pensive little miss is. Right! Betty Compson, of course.

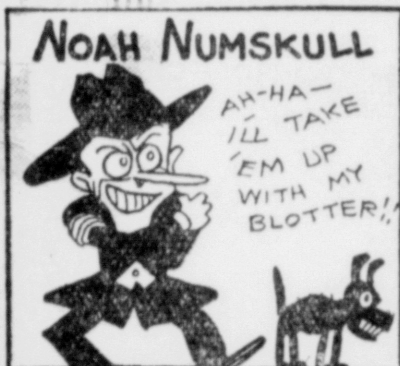

despite the stock market monkey-shines, the film folk had no need to grow a crop of gray hair and raise a set of wrinkles. Movie stars who are in thick with the theater seat warmers always know where the next meal is coming from and that there will be gravy on the potatoes.

Corinne Griffith is one of those mentioned as having been hit in the pocketbook by the drop. Norma Talmadge is reported as another and so is Colleen Moore, who was a movie actress just a few weeks ago and may soon become a movie actress again.

Chief losers however, are said to have been film company executives. And film company stocks were hard hit too. Reports had it that the movie colony lost millions and during the collapse you could have found all your favorite stars hanging around a ticker. In Hollywood money comes fast and goes just as quickly and the film folk, as a rule, are good enough gamblers to see it go and grin.

SWIFT JUSTICE

Death Sentence For Armed Robber Brings Comment On Oklahoma Jurist.

Judge SAUL YAGER

EMMETT KELLY

By Central Press
TULSA, Okla., Nov. 7.—Does society owe the armed bandit who goes out upon the streets or highways in search of his victim, perhaps to kill him, a duty?

No, says District Judge Saul Yager from his judicial bench in Tulsa, and he emphasized this answer in a foreboding manner recently when he attracted nationwide attention by sentencing a 17-year-old boy to the electric chair and a 29-year-old youth to life imprisonment when the two entered pleas of guilty before him to charges of robbery.

Bandit Potential Killer
He looks upon the bandit, they call them hijackers now, as a potential murderer, he explains, against whom society's safeguard is swift, certain justice and heavy penalties.

And when Ted Cole, 17, stood before him and admitted his guilt in connection with the robbery of a bottling works plant in Tulsa, the judge looked not upon a youth in his teens who might at some future date become a leading citizen in some town, a successful business man or the head of a family, but upon a hardened criminal, who admitted that the past six years of his life had been devoted to crime.

Cole was brought to Tulsa from the Arkansas state prison to face the charge of robbery. He had been sent up there for two years on a burglary charge.

Unmoved by Youth

His youth might have had some effect upon the majority of judges. But Judge Yager, who already has made the courts of the country sit up and look about by the suddenness with which he dispenses justice, followed the law as he saw it.

The Oklahoma legislature has provided that persons who commit the crime of robbery with a gun shall be subject to death. The southwest has been a breeding place for bandits for years. Many notorious names have blazed into infamous history out of this young, rapidly growing territory.

These names will remain out of history if more judges will take Yager's attitude, authorities believe.

The Judge's Code
Here is the code of ethics which forth: "The interests of the armed hijacker, who goes out with purpose of holding up and perhaps killing his victim, is directly opposite to the interests of society. "There is the question. Whose interests are paramount, society's or the hijacker's? To me there is but one answer, society's. "I have a feeling of compassion for the man accused, whether he is 17 or 77, but at the same time it is my duty and desire to protect the interests of the citizens who may be the next victim of these potential murderers. "But I do not propose to wait until someone is killed before acting to check such a danger!"

Tulsa and the country gasped at the swiftness of his judgment.

Gives Second Sentence
Twenty-four hours later another gasp went out. Judge Yager sentenced Emmett Kelly, 29, Wellston, Ohio, youth, to life imprisonment when he entered a plea of guilty to a charge of stealing $1.15 worth of gasoline and oil at the point of a gun.

Kelly told a pitiful story of privations, of the anxiety he and his young wife had to reach Arizona for his health. He told the court he had a navy record. He and his wife had stopped in Tulsa, broke.

Commended and Condemned
Commendation and protests alike have come to the Tulsa jurist. Authorities whose duty it is to uphold the law and suppress crime unite in commendation. Some citizens feel that the jurist was too severe.

In the meantime, Cole and Kelly have gone to the state prison at McAlester, the former to death row, the other to begin long years in prison.

"They'll never send me to the chair," hopes Cole. "The people of the state won't let 'em."

Youth Has Found The Way!

AN ANCIENT PREJUDICE HAS BEEN REMOVED

AMERICAN INTELLIGENCE has cultivated the fertile field of opportunity and invites everyone to roam in search of desired pursuits. Nothing remains of that ancient prejudice which bound the apprentice, without choice, to his career.

"toasting did it"—

Gone is that ancient prejudice against cigarettes—Progress has been made. We removed the prejudice against cigarettes when we removed harmful corrosive ACRIDS (pungent irritants) from the tobaccos.

YEARS ago, when cigarettes were made without the aid of modern science, there originated that ancient prejudice against all cigarettes. That criticism is no longer justified. LUCKY STRIKE, the finest cigarette you ever smoked, made of the choicest tobacco, properly aged and skillfully blended—"It's Toasted."

"TOASTING," the most modern step in cigarette manufacture, removes from LUCKY STRIKE harmful irritants which are present in cigarettes manufactured in the old-fashioned way.

Everyone knows that heat purifies, and so "TOASTING"—LUCKY STRIKE'S extra secret process—removes harmful corrosive ACRIDS (pungent irritants) from LUCKIES which in the old-fashioned manufacture of cigarettes cause throat irritation and coughing. Thus "TOASTING" has destroyed that ancient prejudice against cigarette smoking by men and by women.

"It's toasted"

No Throat Irritation—No Cough.

"It's Toasted"—the phrase that describes the extra "toasting" process applied in the manufacture of Lucky Strike Cigarettes. The finest tobaccos—the Cream of the Crop—are scientifically subjected to penetrating heat at minimum, 260°—maximum, 300°, Fahrenheit. The exact, expert regulation of such high temperatures removes impurities. More than a slogan "It's Toasted" is recognized by millions as the most modern step in cigarette manufacture.
